MOSCOW URGES GERMAN LABOR TO OUST HITLER

INTERNATIONALE FOR CAPITALISM'S DOOM

Communist Party Called On to Prepare Masses for Decisive Struggle.

Moscow, April 9 (A.P.).—The Communist Internationale today appealed to the German laboring masses to overthrow the Hitler government by an armed revolt and to establish in its stead a dictatorship of the proletariat.

The appeal was in a statement issued by the presidium of the Communist Internationale's executive committee, which was published in the newspaper Pravda.

Heading for Catastrophe.

It called on the German Communist party to warn the masses that "Hitler's government is leading the country to catastrophe and the only possibility for the laboring class to prevent their further improvishment and misery is through a proletarian revolution and a dictatorship of the proletariat."

Urging the formation of a uniform front between social Democrats and Communists against the German bourgeoise, the manifesto instructed German Communists to strengthen their party so as "to prepare the masses for decisive revolutionary battles and to overthrow capitalism and Fascist dictatorship by means of an armed revolt."

The presidium gave its formal approval to the German Communist party's leadership and its activities thus far.

2 Akron Dead Found; Memorial Rites Held

By ELISABETH E. POE.

The Akron disaster is a "new chapter that discloses the utter fidelity and heroism that is ever typical of the men of the United States Navy," declared the Right Rev. Dr. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, at the service of commemoration of the officers and men of the U. S. S. Akron, held in the Great Choir and Sanctuary of Washington Cathedral yesterday afternoon.

Men and women in the congregation, which filled the Great Choir to overflowing, displayed emotion unashamed as the bishop continued his tribute to the valor of these latest recruits to the Navy's golden roll of heroes. Among those who listened were Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry L. Roosevelt, the high ranking officers of the Navy, the Senate and House Naval Affairs, members of the President's Cabinet, diplomats, Government officials, relatives of the officers and men of the Commanders Berry and McCord Recovered by Coast Guard.

U. S. S. Portland, off New Jersey Coast, April 9 (A.P.).—The bodies of Commander Frank C. McCord, commander of the Akron, and Commander Frederick T. Berry, commanding officer of the Lakehurst Naval Air Station, were recovered from the sea today within 2 miles of each other.

The body of Berry, 45-year-old native of Iowa, who had been a guest officer aboard the dirigible when she plunged into the sea during an electrical storm last Tuesday morning, was the first found.

It was recovered 28 miles southeast of Barnegat Lightship and 8 miles from the scene of the disaster by the Coast Guard destroyer Tucker.

A few hours later the Tucker also took from the sea the body of the 42-year-old native of Vincennes, Ind., who had been commander of the giant airship since January 4.

Both bodies were started for Atlantic City aboard searching craft.

'PANCAKING' IN TREE SAVES TRIO IN PLANE

Quick Thinking by Aviator and Deft Maneuver Avert Disaster.

A split-second maneuver, a breath-taking chance, and three occupants of an airplane escaped serious injury and possibly death yesterday afternoon, when the ship crashed out of control on a field near Cedar Grove, Md.

Quick thinking by the pilot, Harry Appleby, 35, of Damascus, Md., probably saved his life as well as the lives of his passengers, Harry Lee Purdum, 27, and Charles Worley, both of Cedar Grove, Md.

The trio left early in the afternoon on a sightseeing flight over nearby Maryland. Shortly before dusk they returned to the landing field of T. L. Watkins, on the outskirts of Cedar Grove.

Pilot Appleby circled his ship, a cabn monoplane, over the field several times, then prepared for a landing. Scarcely had he nosed the craft toward the ground, than the engine died. For a moment he attempted frantically to start the stalled motor, but realizing his efforts were hopeless, he headed for a 20-foot cedar tree at the edge of the field.

Calmly he waited until the plane was about to crash head-on into the tree, then, with a quick motion, he again nosed into the air and "pancaked" against the tree trunk.

The impact cracked the huge tree in half, and the plane, tangled in the upper branches, hurtled to the ground. The tree, however, had broken the fall enough to avert serious injury to the ship's occupants.

Crowds of Sunday motorists, who witnessed the crash, hurried to aid the three men. Purdin, who was sitting in front next to the pilot, was the only one injured. He was taken to the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, Md., and treated for severe lacerations to his face and head and an injury to his right shoulder.

Appleby and Worley, who was sitting in the rear, escaped with a few bruises.

Appleby's plane was badly damaged. Had he chosen to attempt a landing rather than strike the tree, witnesses said, the trio would have been killed or seriously hurt.

More Cobras

Spitting Variety, Included in Bistany Collection, to Be Sent Here.

San Francisco, April 8 (A.P.).—Back from "a little hunting trip," in Africa and Asia, George Bistany, director of Fleishhacker Zoo here, said tonight a hundred or more animals, reptiles and birds will be along soon to make their homes in America.

For the Fleishhacker Zoo a pair of 9-month-old hippopotami, a white female camel, a buck ibex and a pair of hunting leopards are at Cairo, Egypt, waiting passage, he said.

Captured under commission or for shipment to other cities, Bistany said, are:

Eleven spitting cobras, the first to be brought to the United States, for Washington, D. C.

Six greater bustard birds, also something new in America; horned vipers, a deadly puff adder and a 16-foot cobra for New York zoos.

FOREST CAMP PACE DISAPPOINTS HEADS

Fechner Reveals That Only 2,607 Men From Six Cities Are on Job.

(Associated Press.)

Frankly expressing disappointment at the slow pace of forestry camp enrollment, administration aids plunged ahead yesterday to speed the mobilization of idle men and to place selection on a national basis this week.

Robert Fechner, Roosevelt-appointed director of the conservation-employment program, disclosed yesterday that only 2,607 men from six cities now were in Army conditioning camps out of the first quota of 25,000 to be selected from 17 cities.

Fechner said that New York, with an initial quota of 7,500 has sent the largest number to camp—1,102. He said Philadelphia has sent 1,000; Newark, 254; Baltimore, 165; Pittsburgh, 60, and Washington, 26. He based his figures on late telegrams.

Fechner, ill Saturday and yesterday, will take personal charge of the program today, in the meantime giving directions from his bed. He declared himself "not at all satisfied with this speed," and set up a new objective—to have 250,000 men in Army camps by May 15, for two weeks of hardening preliminary to their march on the forests. He expects the first of this larger contingent to be in Army centers by Friday.

During the week representatives of State unemployment relief agencies, which will handle the selection of the recruits, will be here for several group meetings. They will receive final instructions from Fechner and the Labor Department and be referred to Army corps area commanders to whom the recruits are being turned over.

On Saturday, a meeting of representatives of North Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky,

Kansas City, April 9 (A.P.).—Hijackers have gone to work on Missouri's 3.2 beer now, the first robbery reported to Kansas City police netting a truck load valued at $600.

Carrying a consignment of 185 cases of the new brew from a St. Joseph, Mo., brewery, Ovid Crouch, of Bolckow, Mo., and E. N. Black, jr., of St. Joseph, reported they had been held up by six gunmen last night in North Kansas City. Officers recovered their truck, abandoned and empty.

Anti-Hitler Posters Seized in London

London, April 9 (J.P.).—Acting on instructions from Scotland Yard, hundreds of police late today swooped down on Jewish stores in the east end in London and ordered the immediate removal of all posters urging a boycott on German goods.

The authorities decided on this action because the posters "might cause a breach of the peace." Many Jewish proprietors protested vigorously. However, they complied.

Simultaneously, home office officials prohibited the display of anti-Hitler posters on automobiles proceeding to the Scala Theater for an anti-Hitler meeting, explaining such moves "might cause friction in Anglo-German relations."

100,000 CROWD TIDAL BASIN TO SEE BLOSSOMS

BUT TRAFFIC IS HELD LIGHTER THAN IN 1932

Beauty worshipers, nearly 100,000 of them, passed yesterday in an endless stream around the Tidal Basin, where the cherry trees from Tokyo formed an opalescent cloud, tinged with pink, above the sparkling water.

Rarely before have the famed blossoms displayed themselves in greater glory; rarely have they appeared so fragile, so incredibly lovely. Like a painting too delicate for human hands to commit to canvas they hovered against the waters, impervious and proud.

"They're too good to be true," a woman was heard to exclaim. "One expects them to vanish, like a mist."

White House Magnolia Trees.

The single blossoms were in full bloom yesterday. The double blossoms, deeper in color, are expected to be out by Easter Sunday, but the blooms as they can be seen now are probably the more impressive. Only in this incipient beauty do they possess the atmosphere of half illusion and half reality that is their chief charm. Seen through the golden powdered gleam of an early spring afternoon, they are like a stray bit of fairyland, imprisoned for a while in a workaday world.

But the cherry trees were not the only floral spots of color to be seen in the Capital. Against the green of Potomac Park and the verdant carpet of the Ellipse, the saffron of forsythia formed islands of bright color. On the south lawn of the White House, two Chinese magnolia trees were in full blossom. A breath-taking scene was the magnolia grove in West Potomac Park, just west of the District of Columbia War Memorial. Here was a sight that rivaled the cherry trees in ephemeral magic.

And pansy beds, crab apple, plum and pear trees, daffodils and jonquils—they all contributed their part to the coming of the immortal season when young hearts are reputed to be more vulnerable to the darts of Eros.

Traffic in Control.

Traffic around the Tidal Basin and through Potomac Park, despite its density, was kept in smooth control by the 50 policemen on special duty.

Visitors to the city included large delegations of school children from Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont, Ohio and Illinois, and thousands of motorists from Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

Park police reported that 13,280 automobiles with an average of five persons to a car, passed the inlet bridge. Twenty-five thousand persons walked around the basin to view the blossoms. Police said that most of the cars were local and that traffic was considerably lighter than last year. This was believed due to the inaugural, many thousands of out-of-town people having visited Washington then.

HULL MAY HEAD DELEGATION TO LONDON PARLEY

MACDONALD ARRIVES HERE ABOUT APRIL 20

Roosevelt Bid Acceptances Reported on Way From Invited Nations.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

A world weary with economic upheaval turned gratefully to President Roosevelt and his Secretary of State in their efforts to launch a new conception of international relations by a complete revision of American tariff policy.

Prompt acceptances of the President's invitation dispatched to eleven nations last week were reported on their way to Washington from Europe, Asia and the Americas. Leading statesmen from these countries were preparing to make a beaten track to the White House to discuss with the President and Secretary Hull the outstanding problems of political economy and disarmament in anticipation of the forthcoming world economic conference.

Tentative Panel Studied.

President Roosevelt has not definitely made up the composition of the American delegation that will go to London some time after June 15 to discuss the agenda of the world conference with the 55 other nations expected to be present. However, a tentative panel has been before the President for some time from which he will select the chief delegates. It is believed that such names as Secretary Hull, Bernard Mannes Baruch, Norman H. Davis, former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and perhaps Senator David A. Reed constitute a nucleus of outstanding merit figuring prominently in such a list.

Secretary Hull is one of the outstanding world authorities on tariffs. During his years in Congress, he was always listened to with respect on account of his rare grasp of this difficult subject and he will probably be chosen by the President as chairman of the American delegation.

Headed Board in War.

During the war Mr. Baruch was chairman of the War Industries Board,

President Enjoys Motoring Holiday at Hoover's Camp

Rides in Open Car to Rapidan; Mrs. Roosevelt Drives Own Auto; Machine Carrying Ickes Involved in Minor Crash.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday enjoyed his first full holiday since becoming President, driving in an open touring car through the rolling Virginia country to the Rapidan—where Herbert Hoover sought repose—for a picnic lunch.

With the President was Mrs. Roosevelt, their son John, Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., and a half dozen others to share in the outing.

The procession left the White House about 10:30 a. m., Mr. Roosevelt waving genially to the half-hundred people waiting outside the grounds to witness his departure. There was a lusty cheer as he drove away, and wherever he was recognized on his jaunt shouts were raised.

The trip through Virginia's hills to the Blue Ridge Mountains was made under a benign April sun.

Peach and apple trees were blooming pink and white, and the meadows were green with spring time. Evidently enjoying himself, President Roosevelt set a sedate pace through Warrenton and Culpeper to the Rapidan.

There Mr. Roosevelt stopped for more than 2 hours for lunch and to inspect the retreat built by Herbert Hoover and left at the disposal of his successors. There was no indication, however, that the President intends to use it for anything save an occasional visit on an outing such as yesterday's.

From the Rapidan the seven automobiles in the party drove over Skyland's Peak and down a view-filled newly constructed mountain road to Panorama. Dust fogged thick on this part of the journey, and Mr. Roosevelt's face had a generous coating as his machine swung back toward Washington by the Sperryville route.

A visit to the forestation camp near Luray had been planned tentatively, but the hour was so late that it was put off until another time.

On the return journey, Mrs. Roosevelt drove an open roadster easily

When officers arrived Hazen barricaded himself in the home and wounded Detective Milt Stotts, 41, before he was shot and driven out of the home by the tear gas.

BOY, CONVICTED IN SCOTTSBORO CASE, MUST DIE

Formal Sentence Will Be Made on April 17; Appeal Planned.

MAN IS TRANSFERRED TO BIRMINGHAM JAIL

Decision in Attack Retrial Is Returned in Alabama After 21 Hours.

Decatur, Ala., April 9 (A.P.). Death in the electric chair was decreed for Heywood Patterson, 19-year-old Chattanooga Negro, for the second time today as a Morgan County jury in the first retrial of the "Scottsboro case" found him guilty of attacking a white woman.

The verdict was returned at 10:58 a. m. (central standard time), after the jury had been out 21 hours. Judge James E. Horton had ordered the reconvening of court at 10 o'clock to receive a report from the jury, but a delay of nearly an hour occurred until he arrived at the courthouse.

A hundred spectators received the verdict in silence. Patterson, himself, who once before had been sentenced to death on the same charge, lowered his head and appeared nervous as the jury made its report. Shortly afterward a squad of National guardsmen escorted him from the courtroom to jail.

Taken to Birmingham.

Later he was taken under military guard to Birmingham to await formal pronouncement of sentence on April 17. At that time the defense will have opportunity to move for a new trial. If the motion is overruled, the defense then could carry the case to the State Court of Appeals.

The national office of the International Labor Defense announced in New York tonight that an appeal will be taken immediately.

The announcement said the case will be fought to the Supreme Court if necessary.

New Chapter Added to Case.

The outcome of the trial added a new chapter to the strange case which has aroused international interest since Patterson and seven other young Negroes were convicted of attacking Mrs. Victoria Price and Ruby Bates and sentenced to death at Scottsboro, Ala., two years ago. The present retrials, which were brought here on a change of venue, resulted from a decision of the United States Supreme Court setting aside the original death sentences.

Late yesterday, after the jury had taken Patterson's case, Judge Horton granted severances for the other defendants and the trial of Charlie Weems was set for April 17 after counsel had entered a plea of not guilty for him. Only seven of the original group of nine Negroes charged with the attack are involved in the retrials. The other two were held to be juveniles and their cases await further investigation.

MRS. BOOLE URGED TO INDORSE 3.2 BEER

Be Good Sport, Says Pegler, Recalling Her Plea When Prohibition Came In.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

This seems to be a proper time to call on Mrs. Ella Boole, the president of the W. C. T. U., as a law-abiding American to respect the decision of the people's representatives in Congress and acknowledge the nonintoxicating character of the new decimal beer. I notice that Mrs. Boole disagrees with Congress on this point, but I hope she was misquoted because I have a distinct recollection of an interview with her at her home in Brooklyn just before the prohibition law became more or less effective, in which she called upon all Americans to obey the law as a patriotic duty.

Mrs. Boole admitted that it would annoy some citizens to be deprived of alcoholic beverages, but she put it up to one and all to be good sports and good citizens and yield obedience and respect to the law of the land. She seemed very sensitive about the sanctity of the law and the will of the people as expressed by Congress and the Legislatures and it would be disillusioning to learn now that she is one of those who select those acts of Congress which they wish to acknowledge, but repudiate others which happen to be distasteful to them.

That way, as she said with great feeling, lies disrespect for all law and anarchy.

I remember almost her identical words. "We can not pick and choose between laws. We must respect the law because it is the law."

Be a Sport, She Said.

Mrs. Boole became personal to the extent that she pleaded with me individually to obey the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and never to write anything which would tend to discredit them.

"Be a good sport," Mrs. Boole said. "We are a sport-loving country and we respect a good loser. Those who opposed prohibition and lost the fight ought to show their good sportsmanship now. That is the American way."

So, in the present circumstances, it would seem permissible to call on Mrs. Boole herself to be a good sport, step up to the bar and drink a few of those nonintoxicating beers. She need not join in the singing of "Down Where the Wurzburger Flows," although by doing so she would indicate that hearty acquiescence in the will of the people which she bespoke for her law at that time. I would coach her in the words. It starts out, "Down, down, down where the Wurzburger flows, flows, flows," and she would bang her seidel on the table to mark the beats and cry "Prosit!" Mrs. Boole need have no qualms for her pledges against intoxicating beverages, either, because this beer is guaranteed to be harmless by act of the great United States Congress, for all of whose acts, without discrimination, she entreated patriotic submission, at whatever sacrifice of her personal conviction, the day I interviewed her in Brooklyn so long ago.

Call to Do Their Best.

To be sure, the act does not oblige her to drink any of these decimal beers, but there seems to be an implied call on all citizens to do their best in the message of the President which occasioned the beer law, wherein he said the Treasury needed the money. I think an open, public indorsement of this nonintoxicating beverage by Mrs. Boole would tend to release thousands, perhaps millions of other women who look to her for example and guidance, from that interpretation of their vows of abstinence which deters them from the performance of this patriotic service. Of course, they might not like beer, but a patriot would not be daunted by that and, anyway, there were a great many citizens in 1919 who did not like the red or yellow pop, whose manufacturers contributed to the passage of Mrs. Boole's law, and which the good sports were asked to confine their drinking to.

For that matter, inasmuch as the Rev. Bishop Cannon, the Rev. Clarence True Wilson and Scott McBride, in those days made much talk of their patriotic motives, perhaps they would be willing to join in a beer evening by way of indorsing to their following, if any remains today, this nonintoxicating beverage which contributes a tax of $5 a barrel to a busted United States Treasury and other incidental taxes to the busted treasuries of the States and towns. I think I could sell the moving picture rights to this scene for more than enough money to buy all the beer and bologna and pretzels required and radio rights to the male quartet of Cannon, Wilson, McBride, and the Rev. Deets Picket singing "Old Budweiser's a Friend of Mine" could be turned over to the Treasury direct.

Might Have Good Time.

I don't suppose they would turn down this proposition because, in the first place, the law says this beer is all right under the Constitution and in the second place one of their great objects has always been to promote prosperity. They were going to make the workingman prosperous. I will not dwell on that, but now the Treasury is calling and I know they will not fail. Besides, they might have a hell of a good time.

I will have to admit that I have not been the thorough good sport about prohibition which Mrs. Boole asked me to be in 1919 but then I didn't promise. In fact, I believe I said I wouldn't. But, at least I have been consistent through these years at some cost in occasional katzenjammer and I have no way of knowing what price in funds over and above the normal cost of alcoholic beverages.

Mrs. Boole, however, will be different. She reveres the law whether or not it pleases her and she is a good sport who knows how to lose gracefully.

I am sure Mrs. Boole must have been misquoted. She is always being misquoted.

Fate of 30-Hour-Week Bill Is Up to Roosevelt

(Associated Press.)

With administration chieftains wrapped in study yesterday over the Senate-approved 30-hour week bill, that controverted measure faced an uncertain future with its fate apparently resting upon the decision of President Roosevelt and his advisers.

The administration attitude will be revealed this week, probably through Secretary Perkins of the Labor Department, who was given the assignment by President Roosevelt to look over the legislation.

Union Soldier Reçalls War On Surrender Anniversary

F. J. Young Tells How He Participated in Fall of Fort Blakeley and Almost Ruined Plans by Starting Cheers Over Lee's Defeat.

Yesterday, April 9, was the sixty-eighth anniversary of the surrender of Gen. Robert E. Lee to the Union forces, and one of the last battles before the surrender was vividly recalled as an 87-year-old man sat at the dinner table in his Capital home with members of his family.

His active mind aped hurriedly through the maze of events of the last few years to his youth—spent fighting with the Union forces.

A grandchild clapped his hands with glee and the grown-ups listened attentively as the former soldier told of the fall of Fort Blakeley, a Confederate fort defending Mobile, Ala.

"It was just 68 years ago yesterday," said F. J. Young, past commander of the Grand Army of the Potomac, at his home, 1457 Chapin street northwest, "that the last Confederate flag was hauled down before the war was brought to a close."

He described vividly a three-day bombardment of the fort by Battery G, Second Illinois Artillery, of which he was a member. Then in the early hours of the morning came the infantry charge and the subsequent surrender of the Confederate stronghold.

But he chuckled to himself as he admitted he almost spoiled the chances of victory for the Union forces.

Soon after the battery had ceased shelling the fort and the infantry was waiting to charge, Private Young heard an officer come running up to Maj. A. J. Smith and tell him that word had been received that Lee had fallen back and that Sheridan expected a complete surrender soon.

This was good news to all the men, and they cheered. Private Young was as pleased with the news as anyone and he started running toward where the infantry was entrenched to tell them the good news.

In no uncertain words he was recalled by Gen. Smith, who informed him that the infatnry charge was to be a surprise attack and "How," asked Gen. Smith, "can you expect a surprise attack if you set all the men cheering with the news that Lee is about to surrender."

A native of Chester, Pa., Mr. Young joined with the Union forces in 1863 when he was 17 years old. He took part in many major engagements and was wounded in battle.

He has lived in Washington for 52 years and was employed in the Treasury Department for 42 years before he retired.

ROOSEVELT TO PUSH JOB AND HOME HELP

Tennessee Valley Program and Rail Revision Two Links in Chain.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt and Congress will seek a combination this week to put the new national emergency program far along its way with prime consideration to more jobs, coupled with railroad and home-owner relief.

The President will send to Capitol Hill today his plan for a broad development of the Tennessee Valley and the restoration of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., power and nitrate plant.

He will follow this with a proposal for cutting the debt burden on small home-owners and a recommendation to reorganize the eleven-billion-dollar railroad industry on a paying basis.

Congressional leaders expect to send to the White House before next week-end the measure for farm relief and agricultural refinancing and also the $500,000,000 direct unemployment aid bill.

Carefully watching the national budget Mr. Roosevelt will conclude shortly his domestic program with a proposal for public works construction, totaling two or three billion dollars.

He then will size up the income and outgo of the Government and seek to reorganize the Federal machinery sufficiently to provide a balanced budget. Every effort will be made to bring this about through rigid economy. No decision has been reached on the necessity for new taxes. At all costs, however, a balanced budget is insisted upon.

Dewey Group Asks New Wealth Deal

Redistribution of National Income Through U. S. Taxation Proposed.

(Associated Press.)

Redistribution of the national income through Federal taxation was asked yesterday in a statement from a group of economists, church and labor leaders made public by the joint committee on unemployment, of which Prof. John Dewey, of Columbia University, is chairman.

"The imperative immediate duty of the Federal Government," the statement said, "is to redistribute the national income, through repeal or reduction of taxes on consumption, and through heavy taxation of incomes in the higher brackets, of estates, and of corporation surpluses.

"Not investment for production, but such a redistribution of the national income as will enable consumption to catch up with production, will start industry and employment."

High Stakes

$2,500 Chips Are Found in Gambling Raid Netting Fashionables.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—In one of the most fashionable apartment houses on Park avenue, police raided an alleged gambling hall before dawn today, took the names of a number of men and women in evening clothes and arrested three men.

The raiders reported finding roulette equipment, dice and chips marked at denominations from $25 to $2,500. The prisoners, who described themselves as salesmen, gave their names as Frank Brady, James Barrett and Arthur Reid, all of New York.

Detectives James Canavan and Joseph Magnus had been watching the place for a week. Saturday night they managed to gain admittance by telling the doorman they were sent by "Mr. Roberts, of Miami, Fla."

In another raid today police found about 40 men and women playing poker in a brownstone building in midtown. Three men were arrested.

POLICEMAN, BEATEN BY PAIR, HOLDS ONE

Attacked and severely beaten by two men who accosted him as he drove through Southwest Washington early yesterday, Policeman H. L. Pearson, attached to the Fourth Precinct, was taken to Casualty Hospital in a semiconscious condition and treated for lacerations and bruises to his face and body.

Private Pearson was off duty and driving his own machine near Four-and-one-half street and Virginia avenue southwest, when two men stepped from the curb directly into the path of his car. As he approached one of them is alleged to have shouted:

"Run over me and I'll shoot you."

Stopping his car, Private Pearson leaped to the street, grabbed the man who made the threat and searched him for a weapon. Both men, however, attacked him and succeeded in knocking him down.

For several minutes the trio tussled and finally one of them grabbed Pearson's revolver and ran. The policeman held the other man until the arrival of aid.

At the police station Pearson's prisoner gave the name of William E. Johnson, 34, of 494 H street southwest. He was charged with assault and being drunk and disorderly. Late yesterday his companion was arrested by headquarters detectives. He said he is P. A. Raley, jr., 22, of the same address. He was charged with assault, larceny from the District and disorderly conduct.

Clerk Has $500,000 To Give Missing Heirs

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of Cook County's probate court, has half a million dollars to give away and no claimants.

The total of unclaimed legacies and estates in the county is $500,000, and Clerk Robin has estimated that if all claimants were living they might number 30,000 persons. The total is increased at the rate of $10,000 a year.

Liberals Approve Roosevelt Power

Arthur Garfield Hays Says They Do Not Regret Supporting Him.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Arthur Garfield Hays, general counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union, in a prepared address tonight declared the Liberals "have had no reason to regret" whatever election support they contributed to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The development of Fascism in Germany and Italy," he said, "naturally causes fear of that development here. Unquestionably these new economic plans (of the Roosevelt administration) put tremendous power in the hands of the executive. But it must be remembered that the executive has that power only so long as Congress wills it, and that power given can at any time be taken away. * * * With men of the liberal views of those in the Roosevelt administration there probably is no danger. * * *

"It may well be that as society becomes more complicated the Government must exercise more and more power in order to assure a fairer distribution of wealth."

Soviet Relations Hit by Federation

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to recognition of Soviet Russia was expressed in letters to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull made public last night by Matthew Woll, acting president of the National Civic Federation.

In a statement, the Federation said it was urging that "recognition of the Russian Soviet regime be withheld by the United States until that regime shall have stopped its subversive propaganda in this country."

The letter to the Secretary of State was dated March 24, 1933, and that to the then President-elect, November 11, 1932. The federation has offices in New York. Among the officers listed on its stationery are Elihu Root, honorary president; and W. N. Doak, honorary vice president.

MORE ARRESTS DUE IN DURKEE SCHEME

(Associated Press.)

Aids of District Attorney Warren L. Bishop, of Middlesex County, Mass., said yesterday their investigation of the Durkee investment conspiracy would be extended this week to Maryland and Virginia, and probably would result in additional arrests.

Bishop, with William G. Andrew and John Stokes of his office, spent Friday and Saturday examining Government records in connection with a scheme which allegedly involved the sale of stock in a plan to recover $200,000,000 from the Government.

Bishop returned to Cambridge, Mass., last night, "greatly encouraged," Andrews said, by the results of his investigation here. The check-up of Government records has not been completed, however, Andrews said, and the two Massachusetts investigators plan to remain here the greater part of this week.

In addition to the investigation here, Andrews said new angles of the case had been uncovered which probably would take them to Baltimore and Norfolk early in the week.

Middlesex County authorities allege that persons operating the scheme represented that $64,000,000 had been deposited by Charles Durkee, former Governor of Utah, as the guarantee for the completion of a transcontinental railroad and that they planned to recover this sum with interest.

Of four men under indictment, two already have been arraigned and are being held in $2,000 bond each for further hearing. They are George Faulkner and Murdock Clark, of Marblehead, Mass. Faulkner and Clark were charged with conspiracy to defraud the general public and conspiracy to steal from the general public.

The prosecution charges that promoters of the scheme sold stock in the enterprise by which stock purchasers were to receive a share of the $200,000,000 which the alleged promoters said they expected to recover from the Government. The $200,000,000, it is charged, represented the $64,000,000 said to have been deposited with the Government by Durkee plus accumulated interest.

FARM AID HOSTILITY OF G. O. P. IGNORED

(Associated Press.)

Confident that Republican opposition could be blasted aside with comparative ease, Democratic leaders in the Senate yesterday prepared to press ahead for early passage of the administration's far-flung farm relief program.

Leaders were wary, nevertheless, of the possibility that some Democrats, disliking the Roosevelt bill's provisions for giving Secretary Wallace broad powers to deal with farm problems, may join hands with the Republicans in voting for their substitute.

Such a move was viewed as the first possible serious opposition raised in either branch of Congress against the administration program, but it was expected that any materialization would be bowled out of the way without major difficulty by the topheavy Democratic strength.

A number of amendments must yet be tackled by the Senate, but leaders were hopeful yesterday that a final vote could be had by Friday. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, was so optimistic over the outlook he looked for a decision by the middle of the week.

HULL IS EXPECTED TO HEAD GROUP TO PARLEY IN LONDON

an organization which created in a nationalistic field the perfected organization that the United States is hoping to accomplish on a broader scope at London.

Mr. Davis is the President's ambassador at large in Europe at present and had returned to Paris last night after a lengthy interview with the leaders of German foreign policy. He knows the European scene better than any other American in diplomacy today and will be the liaison between the American delegation and the other international members. The President intends to include several Republicans in his delegation and the recent visit of Col. Stimson to the White House was believed to have been with this in mind. As minority leader in the Senate, Senator Reed will be in a strategic position to help the passage through the upper chamber of any measure adopted in London.

To Arrive About April 20.

Prime Minister MacDonald, the first of the White House international guests, will arrive in Washington about April 20. In the interim, however, the Secretary of State will be actively at work drafting the tariff bill which will be presented to Congress with the purpose of endowing the President with exceptionally broad facilities for making tariff agreements with foreign countries. With this powerful incentive to economic concessions from other nations, the White House negotiations will open with unusual auspices. However, the cabled reports from Paris of the arrival of former Premier Edouard Herriot as special delegate from France, emphasize one feature of the forthcoming conversations that had been consistently soft-pedaled here. That is the specter of the intergovernmental debts.

President Roosevelt had manifested an unexpected benevolence in extending the White House invitation to France in the face of the French neglect to pay the deferred December 15 payment. Secretary Hull had intimated in a previous announcement that only such countries as had fulfilled their fiduciary obligations to this country would be permitted to participate in the debt revision discussions here. The White House conversations, however, were originally destined to cover only economic phases. Former Premier Herriot, however, intends to talk debts. At the present this is outside the scope of the President's intentions, as even with the British Ambassador to date the conversations at the Department of State have revolved around the economic points of the world conference agenda.

Correction Is Expected.

It is expected that some correction will have to be made in the projected scope of the White House talks—either rigorously to exclude the debt discussions from them or so to expand the informal agenda as to make a debt discussion possible for all the delegates.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States yesterday made public a plea for removal of tariffs from politics and a recommendation that any change in the American tariff position be maintained with the view of reasonable protection for national industries.

Its views were stated in a letter addressed by Henry I. Harriman, president, to Secretary of State Hull, who asserted only Saturday that the United States in the last 10 or 12 years had been a ringleader in the direction of "economic nationalism" featured by high tariffs.

The letter set forth what was described as "an American business viewpoint" on subjects listed for consideration at the world monetary and economic conference in London.

Reasonable Protection.

"It is hoped that in the world conference discussions," Harriman said, "our delegates would hold fast to a principle of reasonable protection with adequate provisions for meeting unfair competition such as dumping, convict labor, and depreciated currencies, and, further, with such provisions for expert adjustment of tariff rates as would tend to remove tariffs from the plane of purely political considerations."

As to war debts, the chamber pointed to a recent referendum in which its membership expressed the view that any modification of existing settlements "should be conditioned upon definite provisions for such treatment of our foreign trade by the debtor country as will assure access of American goods to its markets on fair competitive terms."

It favored temporary postponement of payments in the cases of countries unable to meet them and advocated that any modification of an existing debt agreement should be conditioned upon reduction in expenditures for armament.

MRS. NORTON SCORED FOR BEER SUPPORT

Mrs. Nicholson Asks What About Children's Safety in Critical Letter.

(Associated Press.)

In an open letter to Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the District of Columbia Committee, Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, yesterday attacked the New Jersey Democrat as having advocated "making beer stylish."

"Do you think making beer stylish to tempt young people will make it any the less intoxicating?" Mrs. Nicholson asked at the beginning of her letter.

She asked if Mrs. Norton approved of "the advertising of 4 per cent beer in the public school cafeteria" of a local high school. She asserted a local brewery had placed such an advertisement there.

"As a lawmaker and chairman of the District of Columbia Committee," Mrs. Nicholson asked, "what protection would you throw around our young children, as you advocate making beer stylish, for the women are shocked at such suggestions from you. We might understand a man, for greed, doing this, but it is almost unbelievable that a woman would concur in such an attack on children, since the law is against sale to minors under 18 in the District."

Things Added to Beer Take Tester to Court

San Francisco, April 9 (A.P.).—Whether 3.2 per cent beer is intoxicating in fact remained a question for John ("Red") Cross, he explained, as he appeared in court on a drunkenness charge.

Cross declared he started out as head of a committee of seven to test the new brew, but "right away the boys poured in different things to sort of improve the body." The court agreed the "different things" probably eliminated the decimal point of the brew. Cross was warned to be more careful with his next test.

New York Milk Strike Once More Called Off

Rochester, N. Y., April 9 (U.P.).—Western New York milk strike was called off today after a night and day of fighting in the vicinity of Rochester, in which two State troopers were injured and a score or more farmers received blackened eyes and battered heads.

Passage by the State Senate early this morning of the Pitcher bill, providing for control of milk prices, led Albert Woodhead, president of the Western New York Milk Producers Association, to discontinue the strike.

Dr. Schacht Talks On World Credits

Basel, Switzerland, April 9 (A.P.).—The German Reichsbank's recent repayment of part of a credit to the Federal Reserve Bank, the Bank for International Settlements, and the Banks of France and England was described today by the Reichsbank president as a move to give the institution greater freedom of movement.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, discussed the repayment on March 4 of $16,000,000 of an $86,000,000 credit at a meeting today of governors of the issue banks who are here for the annual meeting of the Bank for International Settlements.

Dr. Schacht said he considered this was the only way for the Reichsbank to procure more gold and gold currencies, and added that the management of his institution had firmly resolved to defend the status of the German mark. Animated discussion followed his remarks.

Two Fliers Start Hop for Australia

Italian Lawyer in Hurry, but New Zealand Girl Will Take Time.

Lympne, England, April 9 (A.P.).—An Italian lawyer, who seeks a new record, and a young New Zealand girl, who is taking her time, were flying toward Australia tonight. The Italian, L. Robiano, left here yesterday and tonight was believed to be near Aleppo, Syria. He arrived last night on schedule at Baris, Italy.

Miss Jean Batten, 23 years old, took off at 6:35 this morning, planning to stop first at Paris. She is flying a light biplane formerly owned by the Prince of Wales. She came to England from Auckland four years ago to study music, but lost interest after she joined the London Aero Club. She has flown 130 hours solo and says she hopes to take up air-taxi work when she gets home.

The record Signor Robiano hopes to smash was set last April by Charles William Anderson Scott, a British flier, and is 8 days 20 hours and 47 minutes.

matching the fast clip of the leading automobile. Louis Howe, the President's personal secretary, rode with her.

Traffic was heavy near Washington, and the Presidential party drove at a comparatively slow rate. The machine carrying Secretary Ickes bumped another automobile near Falls Church, Va., but a couple of bent fenders was the extent of the damage.

It was almost dark when Mr. Roosevelt's car turned in the White House grounds at the end of the longest journey he has made since becoming President.

Others in the party were Miss Marguerite Lehand, one of the White House staff; Horice M. Albright, director of national parks; Grenville Emmet and Mrs. Emmet.

About an hour after the Chief Executive had settled back into the White House, all major newspaper offices and press associations were connected simultaneously with the executive office switchboard, but the announcement that came forth said only that the trip had been made and that it was "uneventful."

REVENUE FROM BEER WILL AID 20 STATES

Survey Shows That Most of Them Already Have Fixed Levy.

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—Revenue from beer is expected to aid substantially the balancing of budgets in the 20 States where the new 3.2 per cent brew is legal, as well as others where it is to be legalized soon.

A survey of the States today showed that most of the 20 already are taxing beer. Some have left the levies entirely to local governmental bodies, while in others the matter of taxation is still unsettled.

Rhode Island—$1 per barrel of 31 gallons.

Vermont—$1 per barrel of 31 gallons, or the equivalent; 3 cents a gallon on lesser amounts.

Massachusetts—$1 per barrel.

$1.25 Per Barrel in Tax.

Maine—Manufacturer's tax, $2,500; wholesalers, $300; excise tax, $1.25 per barrel; hotels, restaurants and clubs permitting consumption on premises, $100, and other retailers, $50.

New Hampshire—$1 per barrel.

Missouri—One cent a gallon inspection fee, $500 brewer's license, $50 distributor's license, $10 retailer's license for consumption on the premises and $5 for consumption off the premises.

Kentucky—State tax of 10 cents a barrel, $75 retailers fee, and various municipal taxes.

Arizona—Effective June 14, State tax of $25 for retailers, $50 for restaurants and hotels, $100 for wholesalers. Cities operating under charters—Phoenix and Tucson—allowed to tax at $25 rate for retailers and $50 for wholesalers.

Annual License of $100.

Indiana—Five cents a gallon.

New Jersey—Pending establishment of permanent code, temporary code provides 3 cents a gallon tax and $50 license fees for brewers and distributors.

New York—A tax of three and one-third cents a gallon on distributors, those who manufacture within the State or bring in beer from other States.

Ohio—Brewer's license $1,000, for 5,000 barrels annually or less, plus 5 cents a barrel over 5,000; distributor's license $1,000; hotels, clubs, restaurants and amusement parks, $100; retail stores selling for off-premise consumption, $50.

Louisiana—Beer to be legal after April 13 with $1 a barrel direct State tax, 50 cents a barrel State license levy, and additional local taxation not to exceed 50 cents a barrel.

Tax In Wisconsin.

Wisconsin—Tax of $1 a barrel, or 3¼ cents per gallon for less than a barrel.

Illinois, Maryland, Minnesota, Nevada, Utah, and North Dakota impose no State taxes, although, in Utah and North Dakota, the brew will not become legal until July 1. Even then, in Utah, beer can be made for sale only outside the State.

In Illinois, the Legislature the last week turned down the governor's recommendations for State taxes on beer. In Maryland, although the State derives no revenue from taxes, counties and incorporated cities are empowered to levy taxes of $25 on retailers for "off premise" consumption and $50 for "on premise" consumption.

States still beerless where legislation to legalize and tax the brew is pending, include Michigan, Connecticut, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico. In the last mentioned State, voters will decide in a referendum next fall whether they shall have beer.

Conservation Mind Big Aim in Camps

President Wants Men to Take Up Forestry as Their Life Work.

(Associated Press.)

A program aimed to make "conservation-minded" every member of the forestry work corps has been set up by the administration.

Robert Fechner, director of the Roosevelt conservation-unemployment program, said yesterday that the six-month period for which it is planned to have 250,000 men enlist, will be used for education as well as to improve the forests and eroded lands.

"It is the President's idea that many of these men will be encouraged to take up this type of work permanently," Fechner said. "Through the corps it is hoped that impetus will be given to the movement to stop our tremendous forest waste."

Motion pictures, speeches and field demonstrations by the national and State forest services will be used to teach fundamentals of conservation, Fechner said.

18 Bales of Hay Is Loot In Rio Grande Robbery

El Paso, Tex., April 9 (A.P.).—"That's a lot of hay," was all authorities here had to say today when informed two bandits had carried eighteen bales of the dried horse feed from the L. Z. Wolcott ranch across the Rio Grande to old Mexico. It took four hours for the culprits to move the miniature mountain of bales.

JAPANESE ADVANCE HALTED BY CHINESE

Defenders Keep Possession of Chinwangtao and Drive Invaders Back.

Tientsin, China, April 9 (A.P.).—The Japanese, allegedly seeking to oust the Chinese from the area east of the Lwan River, appeared today to have struck unexpected opposition.

(Chinese commanders last week said they had received Japanese demands that the Chinese evacuate the entire area south of the Great Wall as far as the Lwan River. At the same time, the Japanese war office disclaimed responsibility for the advance on Chinwangtao, a seaport 10 miles southwest of Shanhaikwan, by Manchukuoan forces.)

The Chinese not only retain Chinwangtao, according to official foreign advices, but have driven back the Manchukuoan army from Hiayang and Liukang, forcing them to throw up defense lines at Shihmenchai seeking to halt the Chinese advance. (Shihmenchai, northwest of Chinwangtao and between that point and the Great Wall, was reported taken several days ago from the Chinese.)

Japanese Bombardment.

Despite Japanese official claims that the Manchukuoan forces had occupied Chinwangtao, the Chinese appeared to have thrown heavy reinforcements into action from the direction of Lanchow which had halted and pushed back the Manchukuoan advance south of the Great Wall.

Japanese military officials here were silent concerning developments east of the Lwan River, while Chinese authorities claimed their troops had advanced north of Shihmenchai toward Chiumenkow Pass. This, it was said, had caused the Japanese to reinforce Shanhaikwan, which the Chinese movement threatens. (Shanhaikwan was occupied by Japanese soldiers last January.)

Japanese artillery and airplanes were reported bombarding Hsifengkow Pass through the Great Wall, where a Chinese attack was said to have been launched.

British Marines Land.

Foreign circles anticipated that in the event the Chinese successes continued, Japanese regular troops, which leaders of those forces claim have not yet pushed south of the wall, will enter the campaign.

British naval authorities at Shanghai announced today that British marines had landed in Chinwangtao.

A report from Hongkong said 8,000 men of the Nineteenth Route Army, which participated in the Shanghai campaign last year, were preparing to entrain for Hankow, where the southern army will be assembled under Tsao Ting-Kai to assits in the northern campaign. Tsai was the hero of the Shanghai engagements.

BATTLE TO REPAIR CREVASSE GIVEN UP

Residents of Tippo Basin on Move as Additional Water Hits Break.

Tippo, Miss., April 9 (A.P.).—A new surge of water swept over the already flooded Tippo Basin today as workers gave up the fight to close a 25-foot gap blasted in the Mathews Bayou levee last night by 54 armed men who overpowered levee guards.

No accurate estimate of the additional territory that would be affected by the break was available, but Tom James, of Swan Lake, said the water might sweep over 10,000 additional acres. He said perhaps 60,000 acres were under water in Mississippi south of Marks.

Many residents of the Tippo Basin, who had been staying in their homes despite high backwater, were moving out today, mostly into the homes of friends on plantations that were above water.

Successful fights were made against theratened levee breaks near Greenwood, Miss., and on the Gary levee, at Mathews Bayou. The Rosebank levee south of Morgan City, near Greenwood, was threatened yesterday, but workers were able to bolster it with sacks of earth, and as the Tallahatchie River had apparently reached a stand at 37.8 feet, no further trouble was anticipated. Greenwood, however, was virtually surrounded by water, although one of the principal highways was still passable.

The men who dynamited the levee 2 miles west of here last night arrived in boats just as the day shift of guards was going off. After disarming the guards, they placed nine cases of dynamite on the levee and fired it.

Relief crews were sent to the break, and for a time it appeared they would stop the gap, but today it had widened to 25 feet and was growing wider rapidly as the water surged through.

TEXAN WHO SLEW 4 IS FOUND SHOT DEAD

Suicide Ends Search for Estranged Husband of One of His Victims.

Beaumont, Tex., April 9 (A.P.).—Dallas Barksdale, 65, sought in Texas and Louisiana in connection with the killing of four persons—his estranged wife, her daughter and son-in-law and their infant son—was found dead today, a suicide.

The other dead were: Mrs. Laura Franklin, 45, estranged wife of Barksdale; H. M. Hastings, 30, her son-in-law; Mrs. Hastings, 16, daughter of Mrs. Franklin; H. M. Hastings, jr., 3 months old.

Barksdale's body, a bullet wound through the forehead, was found on the Trinity River bank in Liberty County, near the town of Liberty and the Hastings home, where the quadruple killing occurred.

Neighbors said Barksdale came there from San Jacinto County Friday and quarreled with Mrs. Franklin and the Hastings family.

Bodies of the four were found last night. All had been killed with a .22-caliber rifle.

Officers said they believed Frances Franklin, 11, daughter of Mrs. Franklin and sister of Mrs. Hastings, owes her life to the fact she was visiting neighbors at the time of the shooting.

Deputy Sheriff W. A. McGee, of Liberty County, said Frances reported Barksdale had caused trouble in the family previously. She said she did not know whether her mother was divorced from Barksdale. McGee said officers understood the two were not divorced, although Mrs. Franklin no longer used Barksdale's name.

Zionists to Seek League-U. S. Help

Evacuation of Jews From Germany to Palestine Will Be Proposed.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—The administrative committee of the Zionist Organization of America decided today to appeal to the League of Nations and the United States to undertake a comprehensive plan for the settlement of Jews in Palestine.

"The tragic occurrences in Germany," the committee said in a statement, "serve to place the Jewish problem in its specific aspect as an international question upon the agenda for immediate consideration.

"The new German government, disregarding constitutional rights of individuals and of groups, deliberately and without shame has adopted a relentless policy of depriving its Jewish citizens of all classes of their fundamental civic, political and economic rights."

Two West Virginia Youths Kill Selves

Families and Friends Are Unable to Account for Tragedies.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 9.—Families and friends are mystified by the suicide of two central West Virginia youths, which were reported today. No motives are known in either case but love squabbles are suspected.

Jewell Morrison, 26, shot himself in the heart with a revolver at his home at Berlin, Lewis County, late last night after returning from a county store. He was a son of Dale Morrison, prominent farmer of that section.

Delbert Yost, 20, of Baxter, Marion County, shot himself in the heart with a shot gun late last night after returning home from a dance. He placed the muzzle of the weapon against his heart and pushed the trigger with a foot. His father, Lee Yost, is a hoisting engineer at the Dakota Coal Colliery.

Camp Recruits Spend Most Of Sabbath Peeling Spuds

Find Time at Fort Washington, However, for Plenty of Food and Some Baseball; "Boy, Can We Eat—and Sleep?" Is Cry.

Fort Washington, Md., April 9 (U. P.).—The first contingent of President Roosevelt's 250,000 amateur woodsmen spent most of their first Sabbath in camp peeling potatoes.

They found time, however, to eat three enormous meals—more food than many of them had consumed in any single day since the depression began. They also managed to squeeze in a little baseball playing here on the lawns which George Washington trod in Colonial days.

The first recruits in the President's vast program to ease the depression by repairing the Nation's forests came from Washington, D. C. There are 12 white youths quartered in a row of tents on the edge of the Fort Washington Reservation. A few doors down the tent avenue are 14 young Negroes. One hundred more men are expected tomorrow and daily for a week or so until the camp reaches its capacity of 1,350.

Lieut. Col. Louis A. Kunzig, commandant of the fort, is responsible for putting them in proper mental and physical condition during a two-week breaking-in period. Then they will go into the forest near Luray, Va., planting trees, fighting insect life and clearing away underbrush.

"Two weeks is hardly enough time," said the colonel. "But with the proper food, play, exercise and medical care we hope to do a great deal for them."

A 23-year-old house painter, Mervin Cropp, apparently is the oldest of the recruits. He also is something of a philosopher.

"I think this six months in the forests is going to be a real break for all of us," he said. "The depression probably will be over by that time, and if it isn't maybe we can enlist again for another six months.

"Now, I don't specialy like to peel spuds, but still I think it's a lot better than walking the streets in the city. And working in the woods this summer for $30 a month is going to be a lot better than trying to find a job that doesn't exist."

Cropp plans to send $23 of his monthly stipend to his mother. Most of his companions hope to mail about the same sum to their hard-pressed relatives in the cities.

It developed, meanwhile, that the forestry groups will be paid nearly twice as much per man as the regular Army. Recent pay cuts have reduced the salary of the ordinary soldier to $17.60 per month.

The regular troopers at the fort consequently seemed to be a bit jealous of their guests. The latter had no regular drills to go through, they didn't have to bother with keeping their shoes shined and they had no worries about such details as neckties and polished blouse buttons.

They wore work clothes, consisting of dungarees, old blue shirts, duck hats and Army shoes. The few days they have been in camp already are beginning to be reflected in their attitude toward life.

Smiles have come to their faces. Army barbers have cropped close their hair. Food and plenty of it has given them a new interest in physical activity. Even their straw mattresses in the well ventilated tents along the Potomac have been a boon.

"I've never slept so well," explained Cropp. "It's not like a stuffy room some place. When you breathe this air out here, man, you're breathing something."

Habit Court

Church Elders Will Hear Complaint. Official Uses Tobacco.

Independence, Mo., April 9 (A.P.).—The general conference of the Church of Christ here has appointed an elder's court to hear complaints against C. N. Headding, of Centralia, Wash., a member of the organization's governing body, the quorum of twelve.

Church authorities said it had been reported Headding was a user of tobacco, a forbidden habit, and that he had failed to cooperate with his fellow members of the quorum.

Headding has expressed opposition to that part of the church's program contributed by the late Otto Fetting, of Port Huron, Mich., a former member, who once announced the policies had been given him in a series of divine revelations.

Five elders will fix the time and place of the hearing.

Cuban Stowaways Fall In U. S. Hands at Miami

Miami, Fla., April 9 (A.P.).—Three Cubans who hid in the hold of the Munson Liner Munargo as it left Havana were arrested by immigration agents when the ship docked here today. At the county jail they gave their names as Jesus Pilane Valdez, Alfredo Loren and Jose Luis Romay.

They will be held here until the Munargo arrives from New York April 17 on its return voyage to Cuba. Then they will be placed aboard the ship and sent back to Havana.

Cows Taught

To Observe Red and Green Lights in Mounting Milking Device.

Plainsboro, N. J., April 9 (U.P.).—More than 1,500 cows are being taught to respond to red and green traffic lights in a large dairy here, it became known today.

The lights are not being used to teach the cattle to cross streets safely, but to guide their progress in approaching a new marvel of the dairy industry—the rotolactor.

This device washes, drys, disinfects and milks 240 cows an hour. It is a circular metal platform, 60 feet in diameter, and holds 50 cows at a time. The cows enter the milking line three times a day, and heretofore it has been necessary to have men hold them back until their turn came to mount the machine. This function now is being accomplished through the use of the signal lights, and officials of the dairy say the cows respond rapidly once they have become acquainted with the idea.

Bookkeeper in Chicago Held as Theft Fugiitve

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Rudolph Schleichert, 33, of Chicago, was arrested today as a fugitive from that city, where, police said, he is wanted on a charge of embezzling $3,500 from a provision concern by which he was employed as bookkeeper.

Detective John Nothels, who arrested Schleichert, said he admitted stealing the money and losing it "playing the races," and that he probably would waive extradition. Schleichert came here last Monday and registered at a hotel as Rudolph Olson.

ARMY FOOD SWELL, SAYS FOREST GROUPS

One Contingent of Civilians Moved From Holabird to Fort Humphreys.

Holabird Quartermaster Depot, Md., April 9 (A.P.).—The first contingent in the civilian conservation corps here makes no bones about it—the Army food is swell.

"Boy, it's good," said Fred Parker, of Baltimore, today as he doused a grease-covered pan into a caldron of hot water. "And they give us plenty of it."

He was on a detail assigned to the kitchen.

"They work us pretty hard," he added.

The first group of youths, now being assembled in camps preparatory to starting their work of reforestation under President Roosevelt's plan for aiding unemployment, arrived at Holabird two days ago.

Go to Fort Humphreys.

One contingent of 66 was moved to Fort Humphreys, Va., yesterday. The remaining 99 will be moved to the Virginia fort tomorrow to make room for more.

Life is a comparatively simple proposition for the conservation corps at Holabird, which is an assembling point. The men are taken from Holabird to other Army camps.

The youths are housed in a huge warehouse, one end of which has been converted into a dining room, with an adjoining section wired off for the kitchen.

They are under virtually no restrictions, except that they must return to camp by 11 o'clock at night.

"I don't know what we would do if they didn't come in at that time," said Mess Sergt. Rudolf Gede.

Most of them were taking advantage of the leave today to visit relatives and friends in nearby Baltimore, and those remaining occupied themselves by playing ball and reading magazines. A few were assigned to help in the kitchen, but, according to Sergt. Gede, after they worked a while, many slipped out and it was necessary to round up additional aid.

For tonight's supper, Sergt. Gede had this menu:

Assorted meats, potato salad, cole slaw, fruit salad, bread, cake, coffee.

Even More Elaborate.

Tomorrow's breakfast menu sounded even more elaborate. It contained apples, oatmeal, ham omelette, fried potatoes, bread, butter, coffee and one-half pint of milk.

As soon as the quota for the Third Corps Area is filled, a permanent detail will be left at Holabird.

"We are going to train some of them to cook," said Sergt. Gede, "but, of course, they won't be able to cook in the Army way. It would take a year for that."

Because of the temporary nature of camp, no effort is made to give the men exercise. Later, they will be given setting-up exercises to put them in condition for the work of reforestation.

At Fort Howard, a short distance from the Holabird Quartermaster Depot, preparations have been made to receive 500, but as yet they have not arrived.

White Indian Wife Ordered to Court

Told to Produce Contracts in U. S. Suit Against Riggs National.

Los Angeles, April 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Anna Lowe Barnett, white wife of the world's richest Indian, Jackson Barnett, has received a summons to produce in the Federal District Court at Washington, D. C., on April 25, the originals of contracts she entered into with H. C. McGugin, a Kansas representative in Congress, and M. L. Mott, former Indian tribal attorney, of Oklahoma.

Mrs. Barnett's appearance is required in the Government's suit against the Riggs National Bank of Washington for restoration of a $200,000 trust fund which the Government claims was part of a $550,000 gift Mrs. Barnett received from her husband.

The woman was sued in the Los Angeles Federal courts for $250,000 of the gift. United States District Judge William James has the case under consideration.

Tael Bar Accepted By Foreign Banks

Officials Had Rapped Step in China Toward Use of Silver Dollar.

Shanghai (Monday), April 10 (A. P.).—Foreign banks accepted today the abolition of the use of taels, as decreed by the Nationalist government in Nanking on Friday.

The Nationalist government ordered that silver dollars replace taels and that 2¼ per cent export tax be imposed on silver and other metals used in minting.

Establishment of a unified monetary system is the aim of the action. Business in which the tael is specified was halted in Shanghai when the order was announced, and foreign banks at first opposed the move. Bankers said a danger of serious fiscal troubles would be possible if the government failed to maintain the new silver dollar.

Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia is scheduled. Last Saturday a conference was held with representatives of Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Arkansas, Illinois, Missouri, Michigan, Massachusetts and Texas.

Fechner revealed yesterday that the administration is considering a plan for purchasing State and privately owned forest and eroded lands which are in poor condition at not to exceed $1.50 an acre.

Work camps would be set up on these in addition to the camps being organized for national forests and parks. States in which the lands are located would be given options to repurchase them later at the original price plus the estimated value of the improvements.

Many developments, nevertheless, are hinging upon determination of the funds to be made available for the conservation program. Only $10,000,000 thus far has been set aside by an executive order.

$1,000 CONTRIBUTED TO SYMPHONY FUND

New York Gift Is Dependent on Five Residents Giving Same Amount.

A conditional gift of $1,000 to the National Symphony Orchestra's sustaining fund was announced yesterday by Walter Bruce Howe, chairman of the executive committee of the orchestra. The donor, who for the present prefers to remain anonymous, is a New Yorker. The $1,000 is offered with the proviso that five Washingtonians contribute a like amount.

If five donors match the gift, the sum needed to complete the sustaining fund will be materially reduced, and the goal of the women's committee in charge of the fund campaign, will be well in sight. It is the aim of the committee to raise the necessary $25,000 by the end of the month, so that ample time will remain to plan the concert season, arrange artists, &c.

However, this sum is held to be absolutely necessary if the orchestra is to continue its existence. A series of 24 concerts, as presented during the season just closed, costs $92,000. Cash already subscribed to the sustaining fund, plus a surplus in the fund for the concert season just closed, totals $23,000. Ticket sales for next year, if equal to this year's, will gross $34,000. This leaves a balance of $25,000 to be raised before a concert season for next year can be considered.

Persons giving $25 or more to the fund by next Saturday are entitled to become members of the National Symphony Orchestra Association, and have a voice in the orchestra's affairs.

Four hundred and fifty persons are already entitled to become members of the association, which will hold an organization meeting shortly. This number, however, includes also persons who contributed $25 to the fund last season.

The stabilization bureau now is furnishing labor to 146 operating projects, the total estimated cost of which is $2,913,929 in wages alone.

He was a native of New Mexico. Surviving are the widow and two children.

New York Session To Adjourn Today

Passage of Beer Control Bill Last Important Job on Calendar.

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (A.P.).—The New York Legislature will end its 1933 session tomorrow with the passage of a Democratic-Republican compromise beer-control bill and the consideration of odds and ends left over from the feverish Saturday night and Sunday morning activities. It was 3 a. m. on Palm Sunday before the body quit.

They had intended to pass the beer-control bill Saturday night, but the drafting of the measure was not completed at midnight, so the leaders decided to meet again tomorrow. Adjournment is planned in time to permit those of Jewish faith to return home by sundown for the Passover.

The Legislature last night and early this morning completed the revenue program and passed the Pitcher milk-control act, which ended a milk producer's strike in western New York.

RUTH JUDD MAKES THREAT OF SUICIDE

"I've Still Got My Teeth," She Boasts and Points to Vein in Her Arm.

State Prison, Florence, Ariz., April 9 (U.P.).—On the eve of a court hearing on her plea for a new trial and a motion to set aside her death sentence, Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned murderess, made a dramatic threat of suicide tonight.

Seated on one end of the cot in her bare cell, which has been stripped of pictures and furniture since her attempt to escape, the "blonde Tigress" pointed to a large vein in her right arm.

"Do you see that?" she asked her attorney, H. G. Richardson, of Florence. He nodded his head.

"Well, they've taken everything away from me but my teeth," she continued in a hysterical manner. "I've still got my teeth. They even took the buckle to the belt of my coat from me."

Disclosure that Mrs. Judd had attempted recently to swallow a razor blade, but was prevented by a burly guard, was made today.

Mrs. Judd attacked the Arizona board of pardons and paroles for its "unfair" decision in denying her plea for a commuted sentence.

A haunted look belied the smile she gave Richardson. He, together with Eugene Shute, assistant warden, and Yard Captain Martin Wright believe her mind is failing.

Warden A. G. Walker may decide this week whether to ask for a hearing to determine her sanity. Her execution, scheduled for April 21, would be stayed should she be found insane.

Tomorrow afternoon, O. V. Willson, chief of her legal staff, will appear before Superior Judge Howard Speakman, at Phoenix, to ask the death penalty be set aside and Mrs. Judd be granted a new trial.

The motion is expected by Willson to be denied. He then will give notice of appeal and will take the case to the Arizona Supreme Court, whose members will be asked to sign a certificate staying her execution.

Dr. Tabor to Speak.

Dr. Blanche Tabor will be the speaker at the third of a series of lectures being conducted by the physicians of the county at the Clarendon Health Center, Wednesday at 8 o'clock. Her subject will be "Nursing Procedures in Obstetrical Cases."

Hijackers of Beer Get U. S. Warning

Interstate Robbery Comes Under Federal Laws, Violators Notified.

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—Beer hijackers tonight were warned that robbery of an interstate shipment of the brew constituted violation of Federal laws and that the national Government would be active in prosecutions.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said that his office would make an investigation of the hijacking yesterday of a truckload of beer from Milwaukee and consigned to Chicago. The driver of the truck was kidnaped in Lake County, Ill., and later released after his beer truck was unloaded.

"The robbery of interstate shipments," Green said, "is a Federal offense and will be prosecuted under Federal laws. We will investigate and prosecute when arrests are made, all hijacking cases coming within Federal jurisdiction."

Trysting of Pribiloff Seals Begins Under U. S. Guard

Seattle, April 9 (A.P.).—A score of whiskery old bulls, vanguard of 1,500,000 commuting seals, wriggled around the Pribiloff Islands in the Bering Sea today ready to welcome the cows of the herd that now are swimming northward under chivalrous escort of the United States Coast Guard.

Cutters from California to the Aleutians are under orders to guard the flippered tourists from human pirates, who want their pelts. Additional craft will augment the force as the season progresses and sleek brown heads dot the Pacific Ocean.

The picturesque migration of Uncle Sam's glossy-furred wards from the South Pacific and Mexico up the coast for the mating season has occurred every year since mankind first saw them.

In the days of the czars Russia garrisoned its islands of the Bering Sea with troops—and pirates and traders battled to the death for the chance to slaughter the seals. The rookeries of the Pribiloffs have reverberated to the roar of smoothbore cannon and the rattle of musketry.

Today, following purchases and commercial treaties among the United States, Russia, Great Britain and Japan, American and Canadian cutters are strung along the coast, guarding the seals.

Only Indians are allowed the right of pelagic sealing—hunting in the open. They are permitted to attack seals in their frail canoes with harpoons and other aboriginal weapons. White men with rifles and powerboats are barred. The redmen's is a hazardous right, for the Indians adventure 20 to 30 miles off the coast in flimsy open craft, braving the sudden storms of the region, which often wreak havoc in large fishing fleets. Indians try to sneak up on the seals as they sleep and harpoon them.

Arriving at the Pribiloffs a few at a time the seals will be examined by Federal agents and some 3-year-old males set aside for slaughter—probably 56,000 this year. Another group will be branded for reserve. The price of fur coats will be affected, for last year only 48,500 were killed and their pelts sold at auction. Thus the Government protects breeding herds.

In the days before the treaty of 1910, seal hunters of many nations descended on the Pribiloffs, slaughtering seal cows and leaving thousands of their pups to die, whimpering like babies, of starvation and drowning. Seals can not swim when they are born, and must learn from their mothers. While learning, they are truly "rocked in the cradle of the deep," tucked under their mothers' flippers.

The big bulls, 6 feet long, weighing 500 pounds, pick favored homes on the rocky islands and await the arrival of the cows. Furious battles and bellowings follow as each seeks to add to his harem. The cows loll complacently by.

Over toward Alaska, the Nunivak Eskimos are sharpening harpoons. During the sealing season the men separate themselves from women and children, believing that thus they will be assured a good catch of seals, which supply them with food, clothing and light.

AUDIENCE CHARMED BY HEERMANN TRIO

Famous Cincinnati Group Plays Under Longworth Foundation Auspices.

Outstanding among the musical events of the season was the concert of the Heermann Trio, of Cincinnati, in the chamber music auditorium of the Library of Congress yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Longworth Foundation in the Library of Congress, established to commemorate the abiding interest in music of the late Speaker of the House of Representatives, Nicholas Longworth.

Mrs. Longworth, widow of the Speaker, and their daughter, Miss Paulina Longworth, were in the appreciative audience which heard the program presented by these townsmen of Mr. Longworth. The Speaker was an accomplished violinist and had played often with members of the trio on his golden-toned violin of the Amati period (1690), which was one of his musical treasures.

The members of the Heermann Trio are Emil Heerman, violin; Walter Heermann, violoncello, and John Quincy Bass, piano. It lived up to all the good things which have been said of it in yesterday's concert.

Balanced Presentation.

Seldom have music lovers of the National Capital been privileged to hear such a balanced presentation of a program. There was great individuality in the various instrumental voices, but, at the same time, an ensemble tone of rare beauty was evolved and the interpretation and phrasing likewise left little to be desired.

The program was opened by the playing of Johannes Brahms' ever lovely Trio No. 3 in C minor. It was soon seen that the players were masters of the art of trio playing, which, like that of quartet work, demands extreme technical precision and profound study of the thematic material and the relationship of the voices. Yesterday's interpretation of this master work of Brahms developed both the individual style of the performers and the intent of the composer. That distinctive reading of the score and flawless proficiency essential to its success were present throughout the four movements of the trio. While it is hard to choose between them in the matter of musical beauty, the rendition of the "andante grazioso" movement was noteworthy while the superb work of the violinist, Emil Heermann, with his matchless technic, superb bowing qualities and velvet, warm tone was apparent in all the movements, ably supported as he was by Walter Heermann, the cellist, and John Quincy Bass, the pianist.

Audience Enthralled.

The players passed the crucial test of the andante movement with flying colors while the singing tones of the cello and the admirable double-stopping on his violin by Emil Heermann were distinguishing features as well.

The height of the program, in the opinion of many present, was reached in the first movement of the concluding number, the trio in A minor, by Peter Ilich Tschaikowsky. For sheer beauty of melody it is hard to surpass this composition. It was accorded the full meed of achievement by yesterday's players. The audience was enthralled by it and appreciated as well the second movement with its majestic finals. In this second movement the pianist played some solo passages with delicacy and vividness of interpretation. He also won encomiums for his skillful accompaniments throughout the program.

Walter Heermann, the cellist, produced, at all times, a mellow tone, skill in bowing and contributed an adequate share to the general success of the program.

Washington will welcome again these visitors who came to pay tribute in this striking manner to their confrere in things musical, that master musician, the late Speaker Longworth, in whose memory the Longworth Foundation has been organized to further the interests of chamber music in this country.

Harlem to Protest Patterson Verdict

Editor Urges Pilgrimage Here to Lay Matter Before Roosevelt.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—As soon as word of Heywood Patterson's conviction reached Harlem today, William Davis, publisher of a Negro newspaper, posted on his bulletin board a petition by which the residents of the Negro section would signify their intention of going to Washington to protest to President Roosevelt.

The petition was posted at noon and by 4:30 p. m. more than 16,000 signatures had been obtained. Police estimated 2,500 persons were waiting in a double line to add their names. Five patrolmen were assigned to keep the crowd in order.

Davis said he planned to have 50,000 Negroes from all parts of the country join the movement to Washington. He sent telegrams to publishers of Negro newspapers in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Norfolk, Va., asking them to join in the plan.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

IN the District of Columbia Court of Appeals is pending an unique case, wherein the court is called upon to decide the question of whether a member of an association noncommercial in character, organized for mutual benefit of its membership and which has certain members doing work of the union, for which they receive salary, can be deemed a "person carrying on employment" within the meaning of the workmen's compensation law.

During the years the law has come about this question has not arisen before. Therefore, there is no precedent for guidance.

The case arises from death of Opie P. Lindsey, business agent of the Lathers International Union, Local No. 9, who suffered fatal injury while driving an auto from Fredericksburg, Md., to Washington December 15, 1931, on the highway near Quantico, Va. Union members were at work on a Government building.

UNDER common law in the old days a member of a partnership could not sue the partnership. Where a member of an association could sue that association, the instances where he could sue have been very limited, such as wrongful expulsion, so that the workmen's compensation law is about the only conceivable situation where such controversy could arise.

The master and servant question, whereby a member of a partnership, although he may do all the work of the partnership, is not entitled to benefits under the compensation law, already has been settled.

Deputy Commissioner Robert J. Hoage awarded compensation and the District of Columbia Supreme Court affirmed his decision, although the opinion was expressed that it was a close question, not free from doubt.

The court is asked to decide whether the Supreme Court of the District erred in dismissing the bill of complaint, and in holding that the Lathers Union was a "person" carrying on employment and subject to the workmen's compensation law and that the relation of master and servant existed between Lindsay and the union, and consequently that the deputy commissioner had jurisdiction to enter an award.

Representing the appellant are Edward S. Brashears, Wilson L. Townsend and Albert F. Beasley.

EDDIE R. SLANKER, commissioner's office, Internal Revenue, is quite a circus fan. He knows all the big circuses and performers.

Among his favorites is Cardona, who flies from one trapeze, making three complete somersaults and catching the second trapeze.

While in Florida recently he contemplated visiting winter quarters of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus in Sarasota, but because of a last-minute change in his plans he failed to make the trip.

Mr. Slanker each year receives a card of greeting at Christmas from his friend John R. Kelly, who is the legal representative of the Ringling circus.

BEAUTY had its festival day at the Tidal Basin yesterday. The cherry trees, Japan's gift to America, held their annual springtime reception to the public. From dawn's early light until darkness shrouded the sight, people in autos, afoot, and many with cameras came from near and far to view Washington's imperial color sight. Nature seemed partial to the day and the situation. Not a cloud flecked the sky. Old Sol was out in all his glory.

"Human interest" also took rank. Little tots just able to be afoot and mother's pride and joy had to stand or be held spell-bound for a snapshot. Boys and girls just in their "teens" played in the natural amphitheater and in marked predominance were those for whom life was inscribing a master chapter. Brides and grooms zealously posed for a sentimental souvenir of "one day in Washington." Even age paused to hide a moment in a cluster of blossoms that a commercial photographer might keep the story, always.

While cameras were noted in large numbers, a challenge was offered by the presence of artists who, with paint and brush, were eager to catch beauty in transition. "Picture point" seemed to be near Fourteenth street. Here lines were always in waiting for a stand beneath a tree profuse in blossoms. Not infrequently a man was seen whose hair matched accurately the whiteness of the blossoms. Added to this superbly picturesque sight were motor boats which cut their way through the water of the Tidal Basin, all careless of time's passing.

In the promenade, almost ceaseless in motion, Swami Fedd and his half-brother, Havv, observed many of those who take rank in the offices of the Government at the National Capital.

Ballrooms are the meccas for folk gatherings, but Washington's Tidal Basin reception hall is unique in that it provides a place where people may meet informally other members of the great human family.—LOUIS V. WOULFE, Agriculture.

Sheriff Is Arrested In Death of Woman

Shot Fatal During Visit of Officer to Quiz Alleged Disorderly Husband.

Winsboro, S. C., April 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ida M. Broom, 54, was shot and fatally wounded in a struggle that resulted when Sheriff R. A. Feaster went to her home here last night to investigate a report that her husband, W. A. Broom, a taxi driver, was causing a disturbance.

A jury of inquest today found she came to her death at the hands of the sheriff. Sheriff Feaster said the fatal shot was fired as he struggled to disengage the woman's hold on his neck-tie.

The sheriff was arrested by Coroner J. H. Gibson and was taken to the State penitentiary in Columbia early today, but was returned this afternoon to the Fairfield County jail.

LAKEHURST INQUIRY ON AKRON IS TODAY

Naval Court Will Meet in Gas Cell Shop; Doubt on First Witnesses.

Lakehurst, N. J., April 9 (A.P.).—In the gas cell shop where outer fabric replacements were being prepared for the U. S. S. Akron when the huge dirigible met destruction, a Navy court of inquiry meets tomorrow to investigate the greatest disaster in the history of lighter-than-air craft.

The court formally approved today the improvised courtroom which had been prepared for it in the scrupously clean two-story room where inflated gas cells used in dirigibles are examined. The shop, a red brick building, is located a few hundred yards from the hangar where the Akron was berthed.

Beyond approving the courtroom, the court gave no indications as to what course the proceedings will follow when the first session starts at 10 a. m. There was no word on the first witnesses to be called nor the nature of the initial testimony the court would take.

Lieut. Comdr. Ralph G. Pennoyer, who will act as the court's judge advocate, arrived from Washington today. He declined to amplify previous statements that the inquiry would deal first with operational aspects of the Akron's fatal flight last Monday night. In this regard the court is expected to adduce testimony whether the best operation, according to standard practice, was being pursued on the Akron's last trip.

If the same procedure is followed as was in the inquiry into the Shenandoah crash, the court will early consider whether weather conditions were forecast properly and whether the Akron was handled efficiently in view of the weather.

Lieut. Comdr. H. V. Wiley, only surviving officer of the disaster, has stated to the House Naval Affairs Committee that at the time the Akron took off, "the weather was foggy, the ceiling was about 300 feet and the wind about 6 miles per hour, from the northeast."

Marxism Must Go, Goering Declares

Hitler Minister Says Those With Clear Conscience Need Fear Nothing.

Berlin, April 9 (A.P.).—Capt. Hermann Goering, minister without portfolio, said today regarding the wholesale dismissals of civil service employes that officials with clear consciences had nothing to fear, but that the very idea of Marxism must be uprooted.

The minister's remark, "many of our friends balk at the word socialism, but they have not the right to call themselves nationalists if they do not recognize the need of solving the plain people's social problems," was interpreted as a dig at the Nationalist party.

Johann Engel, chief of the Stewards organization, declared: "The sole employer of labor henceforth is the Nation, without whose backing no individual or employer counts."

6 Governors Hold Milk Parley Today

Will Discuss Proposals to Aid Producers and Avert Strike.

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—With a threatened strike of dairy farmers pending, governors of six midwestern States will gather here tomorrow to discuss proposals to aid milk producers.

Called at the behest of Gov. A. G. Schmedeman of Wisconsin, the conference is expected to consider possibilities of stabilizing dairy markets to improve conditions for farmers.

Governors of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota will join the Wisconsin executive, who is en route here from Washington. The new Federal farm relief bill, which would permit appointment of virtual dictators in principal metropolitan milk markets will be a discussion topic. The governors also are to consider possible readjustments in marketing areas supplying Chicago and other cities.

5,000 Free State Rail Men Strike

Fresh Walkout May Cause Ulster Workers to Quit Again.

Dublin, Irish Free State (Monday), April 10 (A.P.).—Employes of the Great Southern Railway, which serves the Irish Free State, went on strike at midnight for higher wages.

The action was determined upon at a mass meeting of railway men here Sunday, when it was decided to repudiate a settlement already made between their union leaders and the railway company. No trains left Dublin during the night. About 5,000 workers are involved.

It appeared likely that the entire railroad service in Ireland may be stopped later in the day, since it seemed probable that the settlement of the Great Northern Railway strike made last week may be repudiated as a consequence of the southern workers' action.

Lindbergh Threat Suspect Up Today

Man Who Blames Desire to Hurt Wife to Get Florida Hearing.

Miami, Fla., April 9 (A.P.).—A Federal grand jury meeting here tomorrow will consider the case of Gilford Clobridge, arrested recently on a charge of attempting to extort $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Clobridge contended a letter he sent to Lindbergh, demanding $50,000 "or you know what will happen," was merely a plan to "get even" with his estranged wife and her family. The initials "L. B." which he signed to the letter were the initials of his sister-in-law, Clobridge said.

The letter was turned over to New Jersey State police and then placed in the hands of Federal Postoffice inspectors. They traced it to Clobridge here and arrested him.

X-Ray Discovery Hastens Spine Curvature Detection

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—An X-ray discovery of curvature of the spine, offering hope of straighter bodies for thousands of child infantile paralysis sufferers, was announced tonight by the information bureau of the United Hospital Fund of New York.

The rays, by a new technique, show the time of onset of curvature, even before the eye can detect it. They reveal the start much earlier than its inception had been believed. They have resulted in new devices to curb lateral curvature before it gets serious.

So gradual is the onset that an ordinary X-ray of the spine fails to show its beginning. But by taking two X-rays, one with the child bending to the left and the other to the right, a loss of flexibility on one side can be seen. This is the first curvature symptom.

It is found that curvature may begin while the child is still resting in bed, and may be of rapid progress during this resting position. The practice has been to wait for youngsters to be up and about before expecting signs of lateral curvature. The theory was that support of the body weight in upright position precipitated the curvature.

The contrary findings were made at the New York Orthopedic Dispensary and Hospital during an intensive study of boys and girls stricken in the 1931 epidemic. Of 350 children treated, 44 seriously affected remained in wards many months.

Several differences in the effects of this epidemic contrasting with previous ones were noted. One was a "surprisingly high incidence" of lateral curvature of the spine. More than 40 per cent of the group of 44 developed curvature.

"A trial is now being made," the announcement states, "of treating these patients, as soon as accurate information is had of the presence of a curve, by applying a plaster jacket with the spine bent over in the opposite direction. This overcorrects the curve and rests weakened muscles. In many cases muscles that at first seem completely paralyzed, if properly protected and rested, recover some or all of their power. It is hoped that in some of these cases curvature may be cured in this simple way.

"For those whose muscles do not recover and whose curvature is progressive and permanent, a method of treatment has been developed at the New York Orthopedic Dispensary and Hospital of first correcting the curvature, either partially or wholly. This is done by a special plaster jacket with hinges in front and back, thus allowing the jacket to be bent to one side at the site of the curve in such a way as to straighten it.

"It has proved more effective than any other means previously used to straighten a lateral curve of the spine."

In these more severe cases, once a spine is straightened in the jacket, an operation is performed which makes a permanently straight spine by causing the back part of the vertebrae to grow together.

NOTABLES ATTEND MEMORIAL FOR AKRON MEN AT CATHEDRAL

Akron who are carried as "missing in action" on the department's roster and comrades of those commemorated from the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics, the Naval Air Station at Anacostia and even from Lakehurst itself. Mrs. John N. Garner, wife of the Vice President of the United States, was also in the congregation.

With Admiral Moffett's eldest son, Lieut. George H. Moffett, U. S. N., in their midst, the members of the Navy Flying Corps were a specially notable group as they sat in the section of the Great Choir reserved for naval officers and their families.

A touching incident was that gray-haired admirals and generals of the Marine Corps and also the younger officers and men of the Navy brought their children and grandchildren with them in order that they might take part in the great cathedral service in honor of their comrades who had faced danger in the line of duty so unflinchingly. Color was added to the scene by the fact that many of the naval officers were in dress uniforms and wore their medals won in many naval conflicts.

With the group of families of the Akron men were members of the family of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, head of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics, who was aboard the Akron at the time of the crash. Among the members of the Moffett family were Mr. and Mrs. George Moffett, of Charleston, S. C., brother and sister-in-law of Admiral Moffett; his sister, Mrs. Dillingham, and her son, George Dillingham, also of Charleston, and Admiral and Mrs. Moffett's daughters, Mrs. E. MacFarlan Moore, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Miss Anna Beverly Moffett and their youngest son, Charles S. Moffett.

There was not a vacant seat in the vast choir but the naval officer aids to the Cathedral staff for the services saw that the phalanx of ranking officers and officials were seated according to their rank. Probably never before in Washington has such an impressive company of the United States Navy gathered together at one time.

Special representatives from patriotic organizations were also present. The officials of the various aeronautical societies and many well-known civilian aviators were among those who attended the services.

The inspiring words of Bishop Freeman won the deep attention of the Navy officers and men.

"In peace or war," exclaimed the bishop, "the Navy belongs to us. It is a constituent element in our national household and lays claim to our deepest affection and highest praise.

"It is because of this that we stand today in reverent and deepened sorrow as we contemplate the tragic happening of more recent days. The men we mourn were our sons and brothers, 'flesh of our flesh, bone of our bone,' the faithful and loyal defenders of American ideals. Their names and persons may have been unknown to most of us, nevertheless, they were committed to a service that concerns us all. They were the guardians of those interests that are nearest and dearest to us. In their service they symbolized the high attainments of fidelity and courage. Obedience to the call of duty was their watchword. The sea and the air were the elements in which their calling had its sphere. At all times and under all circumstances they were wont to respond and respond gladly to the call of duty. As exemplars of fidelity to a cause these loyal sons occupied a place that was unchallenged and unchallengable."

The Navy Band Orchestra, under the direction of Lieut. Charles Benter, played the prelude and postlude to the service. The hymns and other musical features were sung by the Cathedral Choir of men and boys under the direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster.

The service was conducted by Bishop Freeman, assisted by the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington; Canon Raymond L. Wolven, chaplain to the Bishop of Washington, while the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington Cathedral, acted as master of ceremonies. The lessons were read by Capt. Sydney K. Evans, D. D., chief of the chaplains' division of the Navy. Rectors of local parishes marched in the procession of choir and clergy with which the service began.

After the singing of the familiar hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," prayers of commemoration were offered for the officers and men of the Akron. Then followed "Taps," by a Navy bugler, one of the most impressive portions of the service.

Thousands of invisible listeners throughout the country heard the service through the broadasts by Station WJSV, of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and the National Broadcasting Co.'s network through Station WMAL.

Bishop Freeman dwelt on the great mystery of sorrow as exemplified in the disaster to the Akron. He related it to the reassuring message which comes to the world from the Cross on Calvary. From the mystery of pain and loss he affirmed men can only find relief in the light of faith, a faith that transcends reason "that we may reconcile the insoluble mysteries of life."

Speaking directly of the Akron disaster, Bishop Freeman pointed out that the world is thrilled by the quick and ready response of the Akron's men as they heard the ominous command: "Stand by for a crash!" "Knowing full well what such an order implied," continued the bishop, "there would be no lack of obedience, no evidence of faltering. They have been trained to stand ready, and stand ready they would, come what might. The scene of that midnight struggle with the elements may not have the glamour and high-color that distinguish the intense action of a great conflict, but it lacks, nonetheless, those fine qualities that inhere in men who are never found wanting in the hour when peril and crisis impend.

"We will mourn but we will not by our mourning impair our courage or slacken our zeal, else we would be recreant to these brave officers and men. We shall record their names with those, who in other days and other circumstances, have given their lives in the performance of duty. They shall not be forgotten of their fellows; a grateful Republic will give them high place with those of their comrades, whose fidelity to duty constitutes an imperishable record in the rich annals of our national life. They have maintained the unfailing tradition which we inevitably associate with the men of the Navy.

"To their afflicted and shattered households," concluded the bishop, "we tender a sympathy that 'lies too deep for sound or foam.' Language fails us as we strive to convey the deeper stirrings and emotions of the heart. The burdens that lie heavy upon these stricken homes we would seek to mitigate and share with an understanding sympathy and a pity that makes us all kin. Bowed in grief and with a sense of their irreparable loss, our loyal people take increased devotion to that cause for which these men gave the last full measure of devotion.'

"In this, as in every hour of our country's need, may her sons be not found wanting nor her cherished ideals be forgotten or undefended."

Memorial Service Held In Chapel at Annapolis

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 9.—Memorial services to the officers and men who perished in the disaster to the U. S. S. Akron off the New Jersey coast were held before a large congregation in the Naval Academy Chapel today. The services were conducted by the chaplain, Commander Frank H. Lash.

Ministers of the several city churches also took cognizance of the tragedy by having their congregations stand in silent tribute for two minutes.

Chicago Holds Rites For Admiral Moffett

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—Memorial services for Rear Admiral William A. Moffett and others who lost their lives when the Navy dirigible Akron crashed were held today in the Naval Reserve Armory under sponsorship of the Naval Post of the American Legion, of which Admiral Moffett was a member.

search was a notebook found in the afternoon in the pocket of an officer's flying coat which was floating on the sea. It recorded the time of the Akron's take-off with 76 men aboard and also contained a log of the unloading of ballast.

Capt. Leary, commander of the Portland and director of the naval search for debris and missing bodies, of which there are now 68, announced all available patrol seaplanes and amphibians from the third, fourth and fifth naval districts will resume the hunt tomorrow.

This air force will augment 30 naval and Coast Guard boats, some of which have been dragging night and day for six days for trace of the airship, which crashed with a loss of 73 lives.

JEWISH PASSOVER TO START TONIGHT

Public Feast at Center Will Be Among Observances During Week.

Celebrating the deliverance of the 12 tribes of Israel from Egyptian bondage, Jews at sundown tonight will begin their observance of Passover.

Local synagogues will hold services tonight in celebration of the holiday which extends throughout the week. The feast which follows the service is attended by a special menu which precludes bread.

A special cracker-like food known as matzoth is substituted for bread during the festival observance. Bitter herbs and other dishes, symbolical of the exodus of the Jews from Egypt to Palestine, are eaten during the holiday.

The origin of matzoth is the hasty departure of the tribes from Egypt, when the many families did not have enough time to allow the bread they had prepared to leaven. The bitter herbs are a reminder of the bitterness of enslavement.

The Brotherhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation will sponsor a public Passover feast tonight at the Jewish Community Center. Abe Shefferman and Ben-Zion Emmanuel will officiate at the Seder feast.

150 Deputies Ready In Granite Dispute

Manufacturers to Resume Operations Today Despite Vermont Walkout.

Montpelier, Vt., April 9 (A.P.).—One hundred and fifty deputy sheriffs were sworn in today for duty in the Barre-Montpelier granite belt where manufacturers said they would resume operations tomorrow although workers have remained away from the stonesheds for more than a week.

The deputies took their oaths from Sheriff Henry C. Lawson, who was acting under orders from Gov. Stanley C. Wilson. Gov. Wilson yesterday said workmen "must be protected and the public peace preserved." "If necessary," the governor said, "the entire forces of the State of Vermont, both civil and military, must be used to maintain the supremacy of the law."

Approximately 2,500 granite cutters and quarry workers have stayed away from their work in protest against a wage cut. Gov. Wilson said he "had no purpose" to take sides in the dispute, but that all parties were bound to obey the law.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARON.

New York.—Vignettes of the town:

What a strange sight in front of St. Patrick's Cathedral! A Negro strolling along, leading a coon by a chain, the coon wadding like a crab out of water. I'm sure his master must be from below the Mason-Dixon line, for the patches on his trousers are made from bits of towsack, those large, rough bags used for cotton seed hulls.

"Yes, suh, Me an' ol' coon come up from Mississippi. Don' know whuffoh. Just browsin' around."

Winifred Lenihan is one of the few women directors in the theater. She it was who played St. Joan in Bernard Shaw's drama. Actors tell me that she is a stern taskmaster, that she rehearses them three times as much as the ordinary director.

She has always been a pugnacious pioneer.

"When you are as positive as Winifred," a friend once said, "you have to be right nine times out of 10, and it's safer to be right 10 times. Winifred hits it nine times, anyway."

Rough and Tumble.

Maney is a big, rough-and-tumble Irishman who came out of Oregon to edit a fishing magazine, although it is doubtful if he ever got up early enough in the morning to bait a hook.

He has a vocabulary so unique that he is often used as a character in plays and books by Ben Hecht, Charlie MacArthur and other writers. When "The Squall" received such bombastic criticisms, he it was who turned it into a hit by using the critics' own reviews to kid the play so much that it became "the thing to see."

Benedict is another rough-and-tumble boy, and should be, since he was an All-American lacrosse player for Johns Hopkins. John McGraw once tried to make a pitcher of him, but he came down to look at Broadway one night and never went back to the Polo Grounds.

Profitable Lament.

He got his first job in show business when the old New York World printed a long poem of his in which he lamented the fact that it was so difficult for a strange young man to find work in New York. A producer read the poem and sent for him.

Later he took one of the producer's shows on a tour of the South. The show became stranded in a small Georgia town and he sent the producer a thousand word telegram describing his plight, how hungry the actors were and how they would have to have money immediately or the whole troupe would have to hitch hike back to Broadway. The producer wired him back: "Are you serious?"

It seems that he had been the victim of Benedict's flair for practical joking before, and he wasn't taking a chance.

VICTIM OF AMNESIA ASKS AID OF POLICE

Walks Into Headquarters and Is Later Transferred to Gallinger.

Police and Gallinger Hospital authorities last night were endeavoring to establish the identity of a 61-year-old man who walked into police headquarters yesterday afternoon saying he could not remember his name or anything about himself.

At the hospital the man was examined and physicians said he was suffering from amnesia.

Intensive questioning as to his name, home and destination proved futile. The man did say, however, that he thought his first name was William and that he had a room somewhere in the city.

Examination of his clothing was even less informative. The only mark found was Cleveland, Ohio, on a label in the inside pocket of his coat.

The man weighs 183 pounds, is 5 feet 9½ inches tall and has thin gray hair. He is wearing a pair of horn-rimmed glasses and is dressed in a blue shirt, black tie and light-gray suit.

Palm Sunday Rites Held at St. Peter's

Many Nationalities Take Part in Colorful Ceremonies.

Vatican City, April 9 (A.P.).—Dozens of nationalities were represented in the congregation that filled St. Peter's today for Palm Sunday services, ushering in the most colorful Holy Week ceremonies the Roman Catholic Church has held in more than three score years.

Pilgrims assembled from the four corners of the world joined the devout of Rome in commemorating the nineteen hundredth anniversary of Christ's entry into Jerusalem. Joseph Louis Wei, Chinese schoolmaster, had come the whole distance from Singapore on foot.

Pope Pius, whose proclamation of a holy year and decision to revive rituals observed by pontiffs of generations ago make this year's observances of particular interest, spent the day quietly without appearing in public. High mass was said in the Basilica by Cardinal Pacelli, ranking priest.

56 Degrees Below Zero On California Mountain

Mineral, Calif., April 9 (A.P.).—It was cold in sunny California last winter, 56 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, to be exact.

But the sub-zero recording was made atop Lassen Peak, which has an altitude of 10,570 feet. Forest rangers left a thermometer there all winter that registered the minimum temperature. Two rangers climbed the peak yesterday to obtain the reading.

SKI MISHAP FATAL TO MATHEMATICIAN

The police and park wardens tonight told how Paley had left Skoki Lodge and had made the ascent up the steep side of Fossil Mountain. When they saw the young man high above them they started up after him as he moved toward the ledge. Almost immediately they saw a mass of rock, debris, and snow hurtling down into the valley.

Paley was to have competed in the first ranking point-to-point skiing race from a high shoulder on the mountain and it was believed he was studying the ground when an impulse led him to go even higher.

When the accident was reported to park authorities, two wardens and a mounted policeman started for the lodge to bring the body here.

It was learned that Paley was fond of making excursions alone to the high peaks.

Cambridge, Mass., April 9 (A.P.).—The death of R. A. E. C. Paley, young English mathedmatican, in a skiing accident today at Lake Louise, Alberta, terminated a joint research in mathematical analysis he was conducting with Prof. Norbert Wiener at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Described by mathematical authorities at M. I. T. as one of the world's few great young mathematicians and the leading young mathematician of England, Paley had gone on a vacation two weeks ago with Boston friends to enjoy winter sports in Canada.

It could not be learned who his companions were. Friends at M. I. T., where Paley lived since he came here last autumn, said he came from an Army family and was fond of outdoor life. They said also he was proficient in the use of skis.

Prof. Wiener was shocked tonight when informed of Paley's death. Knowing him intimately through their work on a program of mathematical analysis research, Prof. Wiener said Paley was "undoubtedly England's leading young mathematician." He added Paley was one of a small group of great young mathematicians in the world.

Although he was only 25 years of age, Paley possessed, according to authorities at M. I. T., the most nearly perfect technique in mathematical analysis. He was chosen by the Rockefeller Foundation as an international research fellow and had studied in England under Prof. Littlewood, noted mathematical authority.

Paley attended Eton and was graduated from Trinity College of Cambridge University. He lived in Bournemouth and leaves his mother and a sister.

Young Mother Who Forgot How to Breathe Improving

Iron Lung Has Fought Off Death 10 Days, Doctor's Command Keeping Up Respiration; Now Nerve Centers Are Waking.

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Caroline La Plante—who, for days, has been unable to breathe outside a respirator except at the spoken command of her doctor—tonight was regaining use of the involuntary nerve centers that direct normal respiration.

The strange case has attracted several doctors to Frances Willard Hospital, where she is a patient, and the malady, doctors said, had few parallels in medical history.

Mrs. La Plante, young mother of two children, "forgot" how to breathe, they said. Medically speaking, her physician, Dr. Leon Erenberg, explained, functions of involuntary nerve centers controlling unconscious breathing were impaired. The condition arose as a complication of another disease.

While Mrs. La Plante was under treatment for the other malady, she suddenly stopped breathing. She was rushed to a respirator—"the iron lung"—and automatically she was forced to breathe. For the last 10 days her life has been dependent upon the machine.

"Normally, we breathe without being conscious of it," Dr. Erenberg said, "but also we can breathe through conscious mental effort. When Mrs. La Plante was taken from the respirator, she immediately stopped breathing. But she responded to direction, and doctors and nurses commanded her to breathe. So long as she stopped to think, and forced her mind to make her breathe, her respiration was successful. The moment she 'forgot,' breathing again stopped."

"By continued direction and commands, gradually Mrs. La Plante is able to approach normal breathing again as the infection subsides and involuntary nerve cells again take up their functions. Today she breathed normally for 25 minutes after the initial command."

RESORT TO RELIGION DECLARED GROWING

Ascension Preacher Holds People Turn to Church as Never Before.

"Men and women from all walks of life are turning to the church in their bewilderment as they have never done before," said the Rev. F. A. Parsons, preaching yesterday morning at the Church of the Ascension.

"The church has not always been true to the mind of Christ but those people who can discern the progress of today realize that we are entering upon a new civilization and this new order will be the church's great opportunity. They have tried the world and it has failed them. They are now turning to things which are eternal and fail not. We of the church who know the mind of Christ must teach them to love again as Christ loved, to teach them to serve again as Christ served, to teach them to put the will of God first in their lives.

"St. Paul knew the mind of Christ when he said to the Philippians, 'if there be any consolation in Christ, any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the spirit, if any mercies, fulfill ye my joy, that ye be like minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.' This is the message of the church then and it saved them, and it can save us now." Mr. Parsons took his text from the fifth verse of the second chapter of Philippians, "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus."

"The text was taken from the Epistle for the day which teaches the humility of Christ. The Gospel for the day shows the mind of Christ in doing the will of God. Though they crucified Him yet He won a victory by His silence," he said.

First Free Library Centenary Marked

Peterboro, N.H., Celebrates Pioneers Who Started With 400 Books.

Peterboro, N. H., April 9 (A.P.).—The 100th anniversary of the founding here of the first free public library in America to be supported by taxation, a library "of the people, by the people, and for the people," was observed today.

In 1821 the State established a "State literary fund" by taxing the capital stock in banks. Seven years later this was distributed to the towns. Through taxation the town of Peterboro had by 1833 increased its share of the fund to $750, and on April 9 of that year, the library, consisting of 400 volumes housed in a store, was open to the public "for the education of those who have left school, and to give an opportunity to the citizen to read."

Of late years, the town has appropriated $1,000 annually for the upkeep of the library, which in 1893 was given the present building by a Peterboro resident. More than 25,000 volumes are included in the library collection which last year was used by 12,000 persons.

Arthur Lyman Dies At Waltham Home

Massachusetts Industrialist Had Financed Jobless in South Carolina.

Waltham, Mass., April 9 (A.P.).—Arthur Lyman, 71, former industrialist and long active in politics, died at his home here today.

He was a director or trustee in half a hundred corporations and organizations, including several Chicago real estate and investment organizations. He was a former chairman of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Democratic State committee.

In addition to his estate here he maintained a plantation in Yemassee, S. C., and was noted as a horticulturist. For the last two years he donated part of his land to the unemployed as truck gardens, for which he furnished seed, fertilizer, tools and preparatory labor.

On Good Friday, the mass of the presanctified will take place at 10 a. m. The three hours' agony, from noon to 3 p. m., will be preached by the Rev. George F. Strohaver, of Georgetown University. Many well-known Washington artists will participate in this service under direction of Harry Wheaton Howard, among whom are: Bernard Fitzgerald, tenor; Lawrence Downey, barytone; James F. Nolan, barytone; Mary O'Donoghue, mezzo-soprano; Kathryn Bowers, contralto; Florence Yocum, soprano; Master Norma de Meza and the Boys' Sanctuary Choir. There will be no reserved seats for this service. The tenebrae services will be sung by the Friars of the Atonement and the brothers of the Chaminade College in Brookland.

Stations of the Cross.

At 5 p. m. on Good Friday will take place the stations of the cross. At 7:45 p. m., the tenebrae services will be preached by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church.

On Holy Saturday, the mass of the dawn will be celebrated at 10 a. m. Solemn high mass will be celebrated Easter Sunday at 11 a. m. and at 5 p. m. Father Strohaver will preach the radio service in the church.

The Rev. Thomas F. Ryder, noted Paulist, gave the last of his Lenten sermons on the Washington Catholic radio hour, which was broadcast from the church yesterday afternoon through Station WOL. Father Hurney presided at the services which included special devotions at the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes in the church.

Father Ryder said in part:

Virtues Soon Forgotten.

"How soon men forget the virtues of fellowmen; how easily men remember mistakes. Jesus, our good Saviour, had made no mistakes. However, men of the world have been crucified on the gibbet of popular opinion for only one misstep. Years of good service are overshadowed by one error. If the error is really serious, we can understand the change in popular opinion; but where no fault is known except by the grapevine route, it is difficult to understand how people will lend themselves to the blasting of a reputation.

"But it is done, particularly if a man happens to be in the public eye, or if he has been a public servant. Then his enemies get to work. They resort to the whispering method. Then the report spreads from coast to coast that our respected leader is leading a double life; that he is dishonest; that he used his office for personal and dishonest gain; or that he died through poison administered by a certain enemy. Thus it is taken up; it is devoured on the street and in the office, it is the subject of discussion in the club and in the home; it becomes veiled in print, but there, nevertheless, so that the victim is powerless; he has no way of defending himself; he is crucified as effectively as if nailed to a cross. The mob is bloodthirsty and is quick to condemn. Popularity is an uncertain honor."

DEPOSIT GUARANTEE LEGISLATION READY

Steagall and Glass Plans to Be Offered at Once in Senate and House.

(Associated Press.)

Complete except in controverted details, the $2,000,000,000 bank deposit guarantee bill, designed to reform banking practices and restore depositor confidence in such institutions, was ready yesterday for immediate introduction in both Senate and House.

Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee said yesterday he would hold a conference with Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, co-sponsor of the legislation, and members of the Senate Banking subcommittee that has drafted the measure, before the bill actually is presented to Congress.

"While there is a difference in some details dealing with State banks," the Alabama Democrat said, "Senator Glass and I are in accord on the principle of the bill. The bill I shall introduce probably will differ slightly from the Senate measure, but I want them as near alike as possible when they are introduced.

"The administration favors the principle of the proposed legislation and the differences will be worked out satisfactorily during the consideration of the bill, I am confident."

Steagall said the legislation, based on the Glass banking reform bill and his own measure guaranteeing bank deposits—both of which failed in the last Congress—would be pressed for quick action.

Besides requiring banks to separate themselves from securities affiliates and increasing the minimum capital for national banks from $25,000 to $50,000, the legislation sets up a $2,000,000,000 corporation to guarantee deposits in Federal Reserve member banks. It would not, however, be a Government guarantee. The corporation is to be based on the provision in the Glass bill for a liquidation corporation to aid closed banks.

Heavy Snow Buries Streets of Denver

Wyoming and Colorado Hit by Spring Storm That Aids Water Supply.

Denver, April 9 (A.P.).—A heavy spring snowstorm swirled in on Colorado from the north today, depositing tons of moisture on dry farm lands. By nightfall Denver streets were ankle deep with slush.

Motorists drove with difficulty as the wet snow coated windshields. A hard north wind pasted the snow on shrubs and trees. From the northern Colorado line the storm swept toward Colorado Springs, and Pueblo, adding to a depleted water supply.

Snow varying in depth from three to five inches covered Cheyenne and much of southern Wyoming. Temperatures were about normal.

ARLINGTON POWER INQUIRY WILL OPEN

P. U. C. Seeks to Determine Reason for Divergence of Company Rates.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With the question of a reduction in gas rates for Arlington County now before the Virginia State Corporate Commission, the local Public Utilities Commission will proceed immediately with an investigation into the difference in electric light rates being charged in the county by the Braddock Light & Power Co., and the Virginia Public Service Co., according to Chairman Edmund D. Campbell.

The Commission will attempt to determine why the Virginia company charges the domestic consumer more than does the Braddock company and yet has lower rates for street lighting than the other company.

In preparing for the study the commission has secured copies of all county street lighting contracts which have been turned over to the subcommittee on electric light and power for preparation of a simplified schedule showing rates paid on both annual and monthly basis.

6 Accused Britons Get Soviet Charges

Warned Not to Discuss Cases Publicly Before Trial Wednesday.

Moscow, April 9 (A.P.).—The six British subjects accused in the Metropolitan-Vickers case have been formally served with a joint indictment and warned not to discuss the charges with any one save their Russian defense attorneys.

Accordingly, the specific details of the accusations of espionage, sabotage and bribery on which they were arrested still are unknown publicly. Furthermore, it has not been disclosed whether they will be made public in advance of their trial, which will begin Wednesday.

It was learned, however, that the indictment consists of 77 pages and names, in addition to the British subjects, about 16 Russians. It was not disclosed whether the others would be tried at the same time as the Englishmen.

Andover, Ill., Drinking After 48-Year Drought

Andover, Ill., April 9 (A.P.).—Forty-eight years is a long time, but today citizens here drank beer legally.

Local option barred the sale of beer here for 35 years before the eighteenth amendment. Now citizens are able to quaff 3.2 per cent brew. Oldtimers said they could scarcely remember the last saloon, although the building still stands that housed it.

Spectators Dazed By Skeleton Pilot

New York, April 9 (U.P.).—Several thousand spectators at Roosevelt Field gasped today when an airplane landed and taxied up before them with a skeleton sitting in the pilot's seat.

When the plane had come to a stop, the skeleton turned its head and bobbed at the onlookers. Then out popped Jimmie Collins, a private pilot, who had concealed himself from view while manipulating the controls.

The skeleton, he explained, had been given to him by a friend, to place in the curio room of his home.

Michigan to Ratify Repeal Act Today

99 Wets and Lone Dry Comprise Convention on Amendment.

Lansing, Mich., April 9 (A.P.).—Michigan's constitutional convention—99 wet delegates and a lone dry—assembles here tomorrow to make Michigan the first State to ratify the proposed amendment repealing national prohibition.

The result is predetermined, for the delegates were pledged before last Monday's election to vote in the convention in accordance with their avowed stands on the eighteenth amendment. One hundred candidates pledged to retention of prohibition and 100 pledged to repeal were up for election. Only one dry delegate survived the avalanche of antiprohibition votes.

He is Dr. Eugene Davenport, retired dean of agriculture at University of Illinois. Elected by a slender maspority in the Barry County district, he has announced that he will carry the dry banner to the convention, even though it is destined to be "dragged in the dust."

New Orleans, La., April 9 (A.P.).—Alberto J. Pani, secretary of the treasury in the Mexican cabinet, passed through New Orleans today en route to Miami, Fla. His secretary said the visit to the United States was a vacation and had no political significance.

Mexican dispatches have intimated that either Secretary Pani or Ambassador Gonzalez Roa will be designated to represent President Rodriguez at President Roosevelt's preliminary conference on world economics at Washington.

Secretary Pani remained aboard his private car while here almost an hour, and interviewers were met by his secretary, I. de la Torre.

EMERGENCY POWERS.

A strange interpretation of the powers granted to the President and to Congress by the Constitution seems to be gaining currency. It is assumed that in time of emergency the Constitution may be set aside and Congress may take any action that it deems necessary to meet the situation. Panaceas are offered with astonishing disregard of the question of their constitutionality.

An abundance of loose talk on the subject in Congress has strengthened the erroneous idea that Congress acquires unlimited powers when an emergency arises. In discussing the Black bill to establish by law a 30-hour week for industry, Senator Borah developed the idea that the measure would be constitutional if it were applied only for an emergency period, while if it should pass as permanent legislation it would be unconstitutional under previous decisions of the Supreme Court.

One may search the fundamental law in vain for any provision that gives Congress authority to exercise undelegated powers in dealing with emergencies. It is true that Congress possesses undefined powers in war. The Constitution gives that body authority to declare war and further authority "to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers." When the existence of the nation is in danger Congress may do anything necessary for survival. But in peace time the powers of Congress are limited and defined.

It is true, of course, that Congress has power to "provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States". That is a tremendous grant of authority, but the Supreme Court has held that it does not give Congress the right to deprive the individual of his constitutional rights. The theory that the fundamental law on which the United States is founded may be disregarded because the country is in difficulties is a most vicious doctrine. If that were true, the Constitution would be dead, for every difficulty with which Congress is confronted might be considered an emergency. Congressmen get in the habit of thinking that the country is in jeopardy unless their pet remedies are adopted. If any emergency loophole in the Constitution could be found, the country would remain in perpetual crises, so far as Congress is concerned. It is not likely that the Supreme Court will ever uphold such a fantastic interpretation of the fundamental law.

UNORGANIZED MEDICINE.

Wherever medical men gather together protests against the findings of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care may be heard. Physicians cry out against the socialization of medicine as vigorously as business men denounce socialization of industry. No doubt a majority of citizens sympathize with the arguments of the medical profession. Socialism is no more welcome in the professions than in economic enterprises. But that does not dispose of the grave questions that were raised by former Secretary Wilbur's committee.

Dr. Edward H. Carey, president of the American Medical Association, told a group of physicians in New York that the profession has no intention of following the advice of the Wilbur committee. "It is clearly the duty of organized medicine," he said, "to check the growth of community programs for medical service which undermine the financial stability of the individual physician." In other words, doctors cling to their supposed right to serve only charity and those patients who can afford to pay high fees, regardless of how much a program may affect the community in general.

Physicians make a great mistake in fighting the organization of medicine as if it were akin to socialism. The present unorganized status of the medical facilities will not be tolerated indefinitely. As soon as it becomes certain that the profession intends to do nothing toward the improvement of its service to the public, a powerful demand for State control may be expected to develop.

The Wilbur committee found that about one-half of the American people in the lower income groups receive no professional medical or dental attention of any kind. That fact alone is an indictment of present medical practices. Medical care is not available to a large section of the people because the profession is not organized to render service at reasonable costs. Instead of setting out to correct this deficiency, Dr. Carey merely talks about the physician's "right to self-determination in the practice of medicine."

It is undoubtedly true that doctors hired by the State would lack incentive and that the personal relationship between physician and patient would be difficult to attain under such a system. But that does not excuse the failure of physicians to organize under their own initiative for efficient service to the community. Every year that they delay self-organization makes the threat of State medicine more formidable.

HUMANIZING THE LAW.

Abnormal times call forth exceptional procedure, even from the bench. A justice of the Supreme Court of New York suspended sale in connection with foreclosure proceedings on a mortgage of $700,000 on a hotel on the ground that legislation is anticipated that will affect the case. The sale is suspended "until there is reasonable assurance of normal competitive bidding." Aside from the remedial measures being considered by State and National legislatures, judicial action in various parts of the country to protect the rights of both mortgagors and mortgagees is a significant feature of the present distressed times.

The suit in question was brought by the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company in connection with a bond issue defaulted by the Hotel Elysee. Justice Schmuck, in ordering that no sale be held, said that the court was not unmindful of the rights of the mortgagee nor forgetful of the plight of the owner, and that in ordinary circumstances no tolerance would be given a plea to delay the mortgagee's right to foreclose and sell, but when conditions change and measures usually effectual and just become oppressive and destructive, the courts should fearlessly be the first to modify established precedent and the rigor of the law in the cause of justice. The court said:

> To deny what always was granted as a matter of course may be bold, but it cannot be stigmatized as unjust or inhuman. After all, the respect for law and the confidence placed in the courts is based upon the belief that the law as administered by the courts seeks justice not implacable, but justice warm-blooded and humane. Impressed with the distress of property owners and confident of its power to anticipate legislative relief, this court of equity experiences no qualms and has no hesitancy in making the direction under discussion.

The decision was conditional upon the owner aiding in the consummation of a reorganization plan believed best for all parties at issue, and the ruling will be withdrawn if the various interests can agree upon an immediate sale. In view of the many large properties now threatened with foreclosure in New York through defaulted bond issues the action of Justice Schmuck is held most important. If it is sustained by the higher courts this procedure will greatly facilitate the reorganization plans of other hotels, office and apartment buildings in the metropolis.

WHY DO PRICES FALL?

A correspondent takes issue with a recent statement by The Post to the effect that "the value of gold has not gone up". In spite of the tremendous increase in the monetary gold supply during the last two years, this correspondent insists that the present deflation of prices represents a change in the value of the basic monetary metal.

No one can deny that the gold stocks of the entire world have increased by a large volume in recent years. This critic, however, advances the theory that an increased demand for gold has made it relatively scarce and therefore increased its price in terms of commodities. As a matter of fact, the demand for actual gold has declined in recent years. Ordinarily, industry and the arts use about 40 per cent of the gold output. Their demands at present are negligible; hence, almost the entire volume of gold mined is turned to monetary use. India normally absorbs a large volume of gold for her private hoards, but in the last year India has been selling her gold at the rate of more than $200,000,000 per annum.

The demand for gold itself becomes abnormal only in times of panic. But the gold which is taken out of monetary reserves by hoarders in the United States and other countries is discounted in estimating the adequacy of the gold supply, because only the gold left in the possession of governments and central banks is counted. The stock of gold which is actually supporting the world's monies is far in excess of what it has amounted to in previous years.

Many farmers are inclined to say that the price of wheat has not gone down, but the value of gold has gone up. It would be enlightening for them to glance at the findings of the Bureau of Labor Statistics on which President Roosevelt based his order for a salary reduction. The bureau found that food prices have fallen 37 per cent since 1928. Farmers assume that this change represents an increase in the value of gold. But clothing prices fell only 27 per cent, and miscellaneous articles only four-tenths of 1 per cent. If the value of gold has been rising, why didn't it depress the price of miscellaneous articles?

Obviously, some other factor entered into the equation of falling prices. That factor is maladjustment between the supply of goods and the volume of purchasing power available to buy those goods. The price of miscellaneous articles, such as books and toothbrushes, has remained on about the same level because the supply and demand have kept a reasonable balance. The price of wheat has collapsed because world production of that commodity has far outrun the demand for it. The gold dollar is used to measure the value of miscellaneous articles just as it is used to measure the value of a bushel of wheat.

Arguments for scrapping the gold standard fall flat as soon as the fallacy that a shortage of gold caused commodity prices to fall has been disposed of. The so-called commodity dollar, to be based at all times on the average price of commodities, would not eliminate fluctuations in price. It would merely represent the average commodity price. Some commodities would rise above the average and others would fall far below it in accordance with the operation of supply and demand factors. But the great evil of the so-called commodity dollar is that it would destroy the world's standard of value and medium of exchange.

The gold standard was adopted only after centuries of chaos in international exchange. Any currency that is based on gold can be immediately exchanged at a definite rate for any other currency that has the same backing. When that relationship is destroyed the world's business is in chaos, as it has been since many nations allowed their currencies to depreciate. If the so-called commodity dollar should be adopted internationally, each country would have to use its own products as the basis of its money and there would be different standards in every nation. No more chaotic monetary situation than that which would result from the use of commodity dollars in all nations is conceivable. If the world is to have a restoration of prosperity within the near future it must cling to the gold standard.

DIFFUSION OF WEALTH.

While fanatics in Congress talk about distributing wealth by taxation or other legislative means, the process of diffusing industrial holdings among a larger number of people seems to be going steadily forward. As a rule corporations report a larger number of stockholders every quarter. Stocks have become so cheap that millions of people who could not afford to invest in them a few years ago are now buying odd lots with their savings.

The tendency toward distribution of stock over a much wider field is illustrated by the report of General Motors Corporation for 1932. In 1926 that company was owned by 50,000 stockholders. In 1932 a total of 365,000 common shareholders participated in its dividends. It is true, of course, that the vast majority of these stockholders own but a few shares. Nearly 45 per cent of them have fewer than 10 shares, and more than 39 per cent hold from 11 to 50 shares. About 9 per cent of the stockholders own from 51 to 100 shares, and the remainder—7 per cent—hold more than 100 shares.

Since most of the new stockholders in this and other large corporations hold only a limited number of shares they are not in a position to influence the management of industry, but they do participate in industrial earnings, if any. Many huge blocks of stock are still held intact, but the amount of stock owned by individuals with small incomes has increased tremendously since the depression began. It seems quite probable that further developments along this line may bring a wider diffusion of the earnings of industry when prosperity is restored.

Depositors in busted banks want the bank deposit guarantee law to be retroactive, propter, hoc, nunc pro tunc and status quo ante.

X-RAY ADVANCES

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Few of the ancillary sciences of medicine have made such great advances in recent years as that of medical photography.

Thanks very largely to the pioneer work of Schmidt, of Hamburg; Prof. Holznecht, of Vienna, and his pupil, Handek, it was discovered that the addition of certain barium and bismuth salts to a meal rendered this opaque; and by this means the outlines of the stomach and the intestinal canal could be defined, as well as the progress of the meal, normal or otherwise.

In this way the presence of abnormalities, such as gastric ulcers or growths, could be detected at an early stage, and their size and significance more accurately estimated than by any other means.

This has now become a routine method of examination, and has largely modified the old conceptions of many alimentary disorders.

The former anatomical picture, for instance, of the digestive tract, with its arbitrary divisions and implications of fixity, has now been relegated to the past. It has been shown that, in a nervous subject, the mere banging of a door may cause the stomach to drop several inches; and a large number of diseases of various parts of the alimentary canal, hitherto separately described, have been simplified away. The present conception of the whole tract, largely thanks to photography, has become one of an always moving, highly responsive and, nervously speaking, organic entity.

Similarly the introduction, about twelve years ago, of lipiodol, a chemical combination of poppy-seed oil and iodine, has rendered an equal service in respect of the lungs. This, too, is opaque to X-rays and nonirritant to mucous membrane.

By its injection into the trachea either lung at will can be made to receive the fluid, and a picture obtained of the whole of the bronchial tubes and their various ramifications. In this fashion areas of chronic dilation, deep-seated growths and abscesses can be accurately located as never before.

More recently still it has been found that certain nonpoisonous substances can be injected into the veins whereby the kidneys and the channels descending from them and the gall bladder and bile duct can be made temporarily opaque and thus accurately outlined by means of X-ray photography.

Finally, an instrument has just been devised by M. George Scheyl, of Brussels University, by which direct photography of the interior of the stomach has been successfully accomplished.

LINES TO A SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX.

And should I rather trust you than
The honor of my fellowman?
Gold, shining, harsh metallic box
Held fast by two ingenious locks,

I know that safely you will hold
My little coins of gleaming gold
From thief and swift-destroying flame,
But still I look at you in shame.

Something about you deep inside
Stings both my courage and my pride,
And so belittle me that I
In hatred from you want to fly.

Within your cavern dark and deep
Papers and records you may keep.
You serve a purpose, but you can't
My faith and trust in men supplant.

If you alone are constant, true,
'Tis better we should start anew.
I'd rather never safely find
Than turn my back upon mankind.

Why Build a Ladder to Grasp a Prize That Is Now Within Your Reach?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE greatest prize life can offer is contentment. It is the goal of all man's striving—the measure of success or failure.

Wealth and fame and power bring no balm or benison to the man who longs in vain for something more; poverty and obscurity can not bring unhappiness to the man who is content with what he has.

It follows, then, that the greatest of life's prizes is a state of mind often denied to those who seem most fortunate and as often awarded to those who seem most destitute.

The common goal of mankind is happiness. And the pursuit of happiness consists in the effort to satisfy desire. Give me the things I desire, says man, and I shall be content.

It is obvious, then, that all of the material things for which men strive are but a means to an end. Fame and fortune, place and power are coveted and sought in the hope that they will afford contentment.

If this is true, all of us have wasted our energies in pursuit of the wrong thing.

If contentment is the greatest prize and the thing we most desire, why not strive for contentment itself instead of struggling to win certain materials that may or may not afford contentment.

If the fruit you desire may be had for the taking, why spend your life assembling chemicals to produce an artificial fruit of the same flavor?

The state of mind called contentment can be developed when you will. The moment you desire it and determine to achieve it, Lo! it is yours.

Contentment is merely the absence of envy, anxiety, remorse, avarice, fear, resentment, self-pity, covetousness, shame.

And to rid yourself of these mental handicaps, you need only determine in your heart to be satisfied with things as they are.

You need not plan a new life. Go about your affairs as usual, doing the thing that seems reasonable and right. But live only in the present moment, without regard for the past or future, and say in your heart: "Life is short. Nothing matters very much. I am satisfied. Come what will I shall not care."

It is the mental attitude of simple savages, of great philosophers, and of those who love and trust the Lord.

To achieve it is to gain at once the whole sum of good for which earth's millions strive in vain.

POLITICAL COMMENT

New Deal in Stock Speculation.

Topeka Capital.

During the era of roaring stock prices and unrestrained speculation brokers of a shady type made use of the long distance telephone and the telegraph to entice credulous sucker lists into the market for selected securities, usually worthless. People in Topeka and hundreds of other places were surprised by being called up by persons they never head of, and advised of an immediate opportunity to "get in" on some security marked for a "big boom." Some fell for it.

By the Roosevelt Federal securities act, when it comes thru Congress, this form of solicitation will come to an end. Before any securities can be issued and offered to the public, full information regarding the business engaged in, the amount of capital, assets, liabilities and management, must be filed with the Federal Trade Commission, empowered with discretion to issue or refuse a permit.

Mustn't Forget Congress.

Detroit News.

It is reported from Washington that the administration is acting most carefully in its conversations with Great Britain and other countries to insure that definite results be obtained from the world economic conference—agreements that will be assured of ratification by Congress, so that in the conference negotiations the other nations will be as certain of the formal approval of the United States as they are of that of their own governments. The United States wants "no repetition of Geneva in 1927," it is reported, when in the world economic conference of that year "delegates eagerly crowded around to sign the agreement and then went away and forgot all about them." It should also desire no repetition of 1919, when President Wilson put his signature to a peace treaty which he could not get ratified by the Senate.

As presiding officer of the Senate, Vice President Garner is trying to speed up that body, which, it is said, has never been done. That's where Mr. Garner must have got his training in pushing things through in a hurry.

Plans for a Bigger Party.

Kansas City Times.

Those Democratic senators and representatives in Washington who are reported to be increasingly annoyed because President Roosevelt is not confining his appointments to deserving Democrats might well consider this aspect of the situation:

In the last 70 years the Democratic party has won just five elections, the Republican party fourteen. On this record it is fair to assume that the country normally is Republican. If the Democratic party is to build up to a normal equality with the Republican it must win over several million Republican or independent voters. The President is making some of his influential Republican and independent supporters part of his administration.

Is not this a more effective way to build the party that to shut these important elements out in the cold?

Policyholder Thinks Insurance Companies, Representing Savings, Should Be Under Federal Supervision.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Thank you for the article that you reprinted in Thursday's Post, concerning the salaries of life insurance company executives. We have considered life insurance as a prudent method of saving. We have three policies in one company. We have been paying cash premiums on two, letting the dividend from the three pay the third premium. Alas, a sharp cut by the company in our dividends compels us to drop our third policy, and there is now no cash surrender value. We are past middle age. How many others are situated similarly Further publicity would be of great aid to policyholders. We invite others to do as we are doing; to write to the insurance companies and protest against such high salaries and dividend cuts.

Should we not have the insurance companies supervised by the Treasury, as are other savings institutions?

Farmers Can Make Money Raising Fish, Says Former Commissioner Ellis of Missouri.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While national attention is directed to reforestation, little attention is paid to the important object of fish propagation on farm lands suitable for fish culture.

For many years the fish resources of the country have been on the decline. The time has arrived when private enterprises should take up the raising of bass, crappie, catfish, sunfish and several varieties of food fishes as a serious matter for food and profit. The growing importance of supplying fish for the future is apparent, as most of the States are passing laws prohibiting the sale and transportation of fish raised in public waters.

Nature has imposed no barrier, as far as is known, that would prevent farmers and others raising large numbers of fish of quality, provided they use the same intelligent care that has developed our fruits, vegetables, flowers, poultry and fur-bearing animals. A chain of small ponds will produce a certain number of fish if proper care, food, plant life and water are provided, with less expense and care than almost anything grown on a farm, and pay big dividends.

The propagation of fish in artificially constructed ponds is perfectly feasible with proper management. A chain of small ponds will justify the small expense of their construction. The demand for minnows and goldfish has increased in the past few years. Many amateur fish culturists are making a living raising goldfish.

Splendid University Development at Madrid; to Be Finest in Europe.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the first steps taken by the new Spanish Republic to bring Spain back to the cultural preeminence the nation has enjoyed has been the erection of the Faculty of Arts in the new University City. This faculty includes a training college for teachers and departments of philosophy, literature and history. Since the beginning of its academic year the number of students enrolled has more than doubled.

The idea of giving Madrid the finest educational institution in Europe was formulated by former King Alfonso. The work was started 12 years ago on a raised plateau just north of the city, but progress in building was very slow. However, in August, 1932, the republic decided to work on the project at high speed, as the congestion in the old university made it necessary to finish the Faculty of Arts, of which the first stone had not then been laid. Five months' intensive labor with 12,000 workmen employed on the job produced a magnificent building, which the architects and contractors consider a triumph.

There are 300 light and spacious class rooms in marked contrast to the small dingy lecture rooms of the old university. This structure, costing nearly $3,000,000, will be one of the units of the University City. The cost of the whole, it is estimated, will be over $12,000,000. President Zamora, members of the diplomatic corps and many distinguished visitors attended the dedication of the Faculty of Arts and plans for the entire project and the aims of the new university were the subject of the address at the formal opening.

Bigger and More Cultured Nation Will Emerge From the Depression.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The depression talk of today impresses one as being a new experience for humanity though our national life has been based upon periods of progress and depressions, and as the phoenix, arises from each halting era, to be a greater and more solid Nation.

It is rather premature to predict the outcome of the present depression, but it will probably be something that can not be rated in money terms. Present conditions are to be expected as an expression of prevailing industrial organizations and of the political conditions of the past few years.

But we have come through a period of prosperity greater than that of any other nation and unexcelled in the world's history.

The next era promises still greater things, a higher cultured Nation. Scientific research in our great laboratories will reveal marvelous discoveries and opportunities for man's further development. WINONA B. ADAMS.

CHURCHES PACKED FOR PALM SUNDAY

Sheaves Procession Held at Franciscan Monastery Prior to Mass.

Large congregations yesterday attended special church services throughout the city commemorating Palm Sunday, the day on which Jesus rode triumphant into Jerusalem.

Palms were distributed at special services at the National Cathedral at 10:30 a. m., at which Canon Peter Spoke. In the afternoon Bishop Freeman preached at a commemorative service for the officers and men of the Akron. This service was of an unofficial nature as far as the Navy Department was concerned, however, as plans are now under way to hold special services throughout the country on Memorial Day, May 30. In the interval it is hoped that some additional bodies from the disaster will be recovered, and it is expected that by that time all search activities will have ceased.

Palms Are Blessed.

The solemn blessing of palms took place at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, at 10 a. m. The Rev. John K. Cartwright officiated.

The Blessing of Palms procession took place at 9 a. m. at the Franciscan Monastery, preliminary to the singing of the Passion and Solemn High Mass. Other special services will be held at the Monastery on Wednesday, Holy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday.

Low mass was sung at 7 a. m. at St. Agnes' Episcopal Church, 46 Q street northwest. The Rev. V. O. Anderson preached at the 11 a. m. services and also at the evening services. Additional masses will be held at St. Agnes' at 9:30 a. m., Thursday. There will be a three-hour service from 12 noon to 3 p. m. on Good Friday.

Howard Choir Sings.

The Rev. Godfrey Chobot preached at the morning and evening services at the Sixth Presbyterian Church, Sixteenth and Kennedy streets northwest. Holy Week will be observed with a musical program at 8 p. m. Wednesday, the choir singing "Olivet to Calvary." Holy Communion will be administered at 8 p. m. Thursday. One other service is also announced for 8 p. m. Friday.

"The Seven Last Words of Christ," by Dubois was presented by the Howard University Choir at 11 a. m. in Andrew Rankin Chapel. The soloists were Miss Ethel B. Wise, James Lee and Barrington Guy. The choir is under the direction of Miss Lulu V. Childers. Services will be omitted on Easter Sunday because of the Easter vacation.

At the Covenant First Presbyterian Church, Connecticut avenue and Eighteenth street northwest, Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney spoke on "Mountain Springs of Charity," at a special Palm Sunday service.

Dr. Sizoo Preaches.

At the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo spoke on "Who Then Is King?" at the 11 a. m. service and in the evening at 8:00 on "The Soliloquy of Barabbas." There will be a service in observance of Good Friday for Presbyterians and their friends in the New York Church April 14, from 12 to 3 p. m. Fourteen Presbyterian ministers will take part in this service.

At the Universalist National Memorial Church, Sixteenth and S streets, the Rev. Frederic W. Perkins talked on "Victory Through Defeat," at a special 11 a. m. service. Haydn's "The Passion" will be sung at 8 p. m. Good Friday by the National Capital Choir under the direction of Albert V. Harned, musical director.

Other special services were held at almost all of the Washington Christian churches and will be continued throughout the week.

Archduke-Grocer Plans To Marry in Germany

Berlin, April 9 (A.P.).—Banns have been published in Nieder-Schoeneweide, Berlin suburb, for the marriage of Leopold Woelfling, the former Austrian Archduke Leopold Salvator, and Frau Pavlovski, nee Gregor.

Murray Buys Nickel Pen To Provide Aid Souvenir

Oklahoma City, April 9 (A.P.).—Gov. William H. Murray bought a nickel pen so State Treasurer Ray O. Weems could have a souvenir.

Weems, who has had to worry about a flattened State pocketbook ever since he took office, wanted the pen with which the governor signed a bill providing for issuance of treasury notes to fund a $13,000,000 deficit. Hence the nickel was spent.

CHICAGOANS SELECT ACTIVE MAYOR SOON

Council May Act Before End of Week; Nash Expected to Receive Bid.

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—Officialdom, prodded by parading unpaid school teachers, today pushed plans to select a bona fide mayor for the Nation's second city before the end of the week.

Frank Corr, mayor pro tem, three times has seen irate school teachers desert text books, take up placards, and march through the loop to storm his office demanding some of their $28,000,000 in unpaid salaries. Students staged a short-lived sympathy strike.

Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton has held that the signature of Corr on tax anticipation warrants and other papers necessary to meeting payrolls in invalid. Corr was named mayor pro tem by the City Council a few days after Mayor Anton Cermak was fatally wounded by an assassin's bullet at Miami, Fla.

At the time the State legislature had not yet passed enabling legislation legalizing his selection and since the city charter made no definite provision for such procedure, Sexton held that Corr was more or less of a figurehead, authorized to carry on routine affairs only.

Corr tonight was at Hot Springs, Ark., conferring with members of the steering committee of the newly elected city council, which takes its seat officially on April 17. His last word before leaving for Hot Springs was that he would recommend that the committee return with him to Chicago Tuesday, call a special session of the council, and elect a permanent mayor under authority granted by the legislature before the end of the week.

Corr said there was some $1,700,000 available immediately for payment of city salaries awaiting only the valid signature of a mayor. It was expected that the city council would proffer the position to Patrick A. Nash, 70-year-old Democratic national committeeman and successor to Cermak as Democracy's leader in Cook County.

Movie Executives Gather for Parley

Will Hays Denies New Pay Cut Is Planned at Annual Meeting.

Hollywood, April 9 (A.P.).—Motion picture executives gathered here today for the first of a series of conferences through which they hope to stabilize the industry and balance the budget.

"The broad purpose is to discuss fully such industry policies as are necessary for the stability of the industry," said Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors. "The exchange of views as to the needs of production on one hand and the imperative requirements of economy in all branches on the other hand, should clarify many of these problems."

Hays, denying the association plans a new wage cut, said this is an annual meeting and not different from that of any previous year, except that perhaps a wider range of subjects is to be reviewed.

ROOSEVELT IS URGED TO CALL TAX PARLEY

Group Charges Conflict of U. S. and State Levies Hurts Business.

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—The interstate commission on conflicting taxation, a group sponsored by the interstate legislative assembly, today urged President Roosevelt to call a conference to deal with conflicting State and Federal taxes.

The commission, in its recent initial report to the Assembly, said that conflicting taxation placed an "unreasonable economic restraint on business and industry" and delayed return of normal conditions.

Henry W. Toll, secretary of the commission, in his communication to the President suggested that the conference be called April 21 and that the President, Secretary William H. Woodin, and other officials meet with the commission.

Copies of the letter addressed to the President also were forwarded to Secretary Woodin, Senator Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee; Representative Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Representative Fred M. Vinson, chairman of the House subcommittee on double taxation.

Court Ruling Near In Cannon Appeal

Supreme Bench May Hand Down Decision Today in Election Case.

(Associated Press.)

Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, may learn from the Supreme Court today whether an indictment charging him with violation of the corrupt practices act is dead or alive.

The churchman, with his secretary, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, was charged with violating the act by failing to report contributions alleged to have been received by him in 1928 in his campaign against the election of Alfred E. Smith as President.

Close observers of the Supreme Court, which returns today from a two weeks' recess, consider it likely that the high tribunal will hand down its decision on the widely-watched case. The court has been asked to decide whether the Government was right in asking the District Court of Appeals to reverse the District Supreme Court, which quashed the indictment as defective, or whether it should have appealed directly to the United States Supreme Court.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

The Meanderer

Takes Trousseau Notes for the Easter Bride. Lace and Satin Bridal Gowns, Suits, Footwear.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Venice lace, fashioning a wedding gown in slim, straight lines, makes a wide-spreading train and sleeves wide at the top and close fitting at the wrist. The veil for the bride who is to wear this entrancing costume has a Venice lace cap attached to a cloud of tulle. Between the Venice lace gown and another gown of wedding ring satin in simple lines with wide puffed short sleeves, the Meanderer would find it difficult to choose, should such a costume be required in her wardrobe. She advises the bride planning the wedding to see these two gowns in the F street shop, where they are newly displayed, a shop well known for its ability to furnish faultless bridal attire.

A gown of rich gold-colored lace, worn with a matching lace cape bound with kolinsky, is the choice of the shop just mentioned for the matron of honor. The cape of the gold-colored gown is removable so that the gown may serve for formal evening wear.

Blue and peach gowns of crisp mousseline de soie, matching, of course, are suggestions for the maids of honor. The principal trimming of the bridesmaids' gowns is ruffles of self-material.

A spring green coat with a double row of beige buttons . . . and trimming of natural lynx . . . a gray coat trimmed with silver fox . . . and a silk suit of spring green, printed with an indefinite pattern in pussy willow design with cuffs of gray fox, are going-away costumes suggested to the Meanderer in wanderings through the suit and cloak departments of two stores. The green-printed silk suit has the new Schiaparelli pointed shoulders. The price of this suit is so low that you'd doubt its quality upless you inspect the costume personally.

The "budget bride," as a clever stylist in a big department store suggested, might like the wool and print ensembles now shown for late spring wear. They are practical as well as dressy, with their yoke lines now so smart and the leg of mutton sleeves.

Silk underthings of soft, real silk are now inexpensive, costing nearly 50 per cent less than they did several years ago. One saleswoman, expert in the sphere of silky underthings in a large department store on Seventh street at F, assures the Meanderer that she can supply the bride with a set of three garments—a slip, a gown and a choice of chemise or dance set for a total that is less than $10. The underwear sets may be either white or pastel shades.

The "singlettes," popular all-in-one garments that have perfect fit, have brassiere tops and are worn with or without garters. They are only in shades of pink. From a standard underwear house, they are available for $1.95 to $4.95.

Bias cut silk nightgowns with the new strap backs, or lace-yoked gowns with capelet sleeves, come in blue or tea rose pink, and sell alike for $2.95. Other gowns, some of them backless, in blue and tea rose, are $1.95, and pajamas for those who never buy nightgowns are interesting in many designs, priced from $1.95.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

FREEDOM—that is what the little city child finds in nursery school and kindergarten.

In his apartment home he can not possibly play with any reasonable degree of freedom without breaking and spoiling household furnishings, creating disorder and making life fairly unbearable to the adults who must live in the midst of the confusion and noise that go with normal play.

At nursery school and kindergarten, on the other hand, the city child finds a relatively free and nearly ideal environment. There he finds nothing to break or spoil.

The out-of-door play materials—slides, ladders, climbing apparatus, swings—reproduce for him the opportunities for physical activity that the fortunate country child finds in his back yard or in the woods and fields.

Only here, while he plays safely, under skilled supervision, he hears no "don'ts," no hysterical "watch out, you'll hurt yourself," and he is encouraged to try every possible new feat.

Indoors, too, he can handle and play with everything in reach. The walls are lined with cupboards and shelves, all containing toys, tools and other materials which he is free to use within certain very wide limits quite as he pleases.

Here, too, no one hovers over him telling him what to do and how to do it. His teacher leaves him to his own devices until he gets into a difficulty which he really can not meet without adult help.

City mothers with children of 2 or more should not hesitate to send them off to nursery school and kindergarten at the earliest possible moment. School to such a child means not a loss but a gain of freedom.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

An exotic blouse with black insets on white, a cowl collar, and the insets outlined in embroidery. And the fur lapels of a chic coat are different. (Seen in New York shops.)

THE Haute Couture is making inroads on the accessory trade.

And there is plenty to say both for and against it—for instance, the fabric gloves that the most important couturieres are making of the same fabric and color as the gown. One is intrigued, one buys and wears them. The glove makers sneer—and point out the fact that a "dressmaker made" glove can never compare to the standard leather glove. Perhaps! Perhaps, also, some of the new synthetic materials are going to revolutionize the glove industry—for some of these fabrics, as I have already described to you, are far more suitable for gloves than any material that has ever been used for them since gloves began.

Well, and the Haute Couture is making hats to match its frocks, too. There are fewer sniffs on the part of the modistes on this account than there is from the glove makers. Because millinery and gowns have always been closely allied. Chanel, Goupy, Mainbocher are some of the big shots who offer hats that match in material and color the frock with which they are to be worn. Patou has always made hats, as well as Molyneux, although these two do not offer matching hats to gowns.

I should emphatically state that one matching accessory is quite enough in an ensemble—let your gloves or hat match the gown, but not both. A delightful trick is to match the gown and hat, especially if both are a neutral color—then match fabric gloves and scarf, in a gay plaid or check. One may then match shoes, belt and bag—picture this, a string-colored tussor summer dress and hat that matches, worn with a navy blue and white checked scarf and gloves. Then, navy blue leather belt, bag and shoes, See it? It takes good taste to see and assemble—and I beg you to either be sure you have this taste or rely upon the good taste of others—being sure it is good!

Blouses are getting so durn important these days that one just takes them as a matter of course—or a matter of ensemble. One in white challis, showing black insets of soft wool, the insets outlined in black embroidery. I just had to sketch for you today. The collar comes off—or buttons on in the back with two buttons!

And then how about a lapel in fur for your spring coat—and not a speck more fur? Especially if this is broadtail and gray, worn on a black coat—one wonders whether there is a wee hint of the practical in it, too? Because it would protect one from spring breezes, now wouldn't it? I sketched the blouse and the fur lapels for you today!

So, you think a nightgown, dressing robe and slippers are all you need for boudoir attire? Well, you'd be surprised—to know how many other things truly lovely ladies need! And they are little things, too—trifles, made from nothing and in less time than that—but oh, how much they mean to loveliness and beauty and romance! Would you spend 6 cents to find out? Three on an envelope addressed to yourself—three on sending said envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for the leaflet that is simply full of things to make for yourself to wear in your bed and boudoir. Things you can make very easily, too—so better send for the leaflet and be convinced.

Au revoir!

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

DIFFICULT DEFENSE.

WHEN a player in a bridge game holds a Yarborough—that is, no card higher than a 9-spot—and one of his opponents is the Declarer, he is generally relieved from practically all responsibility for the defense, and thus is placed in a good position to observe the relative skill of his partner and the Declarer in utilizing the attacking and defensive play of the cards.

In the hand below, which was played at a contract of four spades, doubled, the burden of finding a method of defeating the contract rested wholly upon South, after his partner had made an opening lead of the suit which he had bid and rebid.

East, Dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

	♠ 9 6 3 ♡ 9 7 5 4 ◇ 8 6 5 4 ♣ 8 4
♠ A Q 10 7 4 ♡ Q ◇ Q J 7 ♣ Q J 10 2	N W E S	♠ K J 8 ♡ J 2 ◇ A 10 3 ♣ 9 7 6 5 3
	♠ 5 2 ♡ A K 10 8 6 2 ◇ K 9 2 ♣ A K

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♡	1♠	Pass
2♠	3♡	3♠	Pass
Pass	4♡	4♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

South realized that his bid of four hearts was possibly a slight overbid in view of his partner's persistent passing, but he also feared that his opponents could at least make a valuable part-score, which would be more than equivalent to any penalty he might take. When they reached the contract of four spades, he, of course, doubled to retain his self-respect.

The opening lead was the heart 4, which South won with the King and returned the Ace, the Declarer winning with a trump. Two rounds of trumps were then led, the second being won in the Dummy. This left North with one trump. A club was now led, which South won, and he was brought face to face with the realization of the fact that defeating the contract would require the most accurate play. If West held all of the remaining trumps and North held the diamond Queen, an immediate diamond lead would be the only way to save the game; but if North held another trump, South could save the game by the remarkable play of first clearing the opponents' suit and then giving the Declarer a ruff and a discard.

Fortunately, North, with his Yarborough, had aided the defense a little by showing that he had three trumps by first playing the 6 and then the 3. Guided by this and also by West's strong bidding, South, therefore, led the Ace of clubs and returned a heart. The Declarer was "on the spot." It was useless to ruff a heart in the Dummy because the outstanding trump could not be drawn. If West ruffed in his own hand he could get but one diamond discard. This, of course, he did, and the contract was defeated 1 trick, due not only to brilliant defensive play by South, but to proper trump play by North, which pointed the way to an unusual but safe defense.

The play of both opponents and Declarer was flawless. Each did the best with the cards he held.

Tomorrow's Hand.

There is one chance in 635,200,000,000 that you may hold the hand below, or, in fact, any specific holding at the bridge table, but if you did hold thirteen spades what would you bid?

South, Dealer.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF April 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5:45 a. m. to 7 a. m., from 10:30 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Influences operative on this April 10 are of a nature that will probably cause you to feel tired and drowsy. You will move hazily and slowly through your work and it is not at all unlikely that much of it will have to be revamped on the morrow. Much affection apparent between children and parents.

The child born on this April 10 will not be easy to deal with. Strong willed and not a little unreasonable he will at times be difficult to control. Girls born on this day will be handy around the house and will be unusually adept in the arts of cooking and sewing.

If April 10 is the date of your birth, the success or failure of your life will probably depend largely on your attitude and relations to the opposite sex. Most likely, you will have but one love in the course of your life, and if that one proves successful, you may rest assured that you will advance swiftly and steadily along the path of your chosen career. On the other hand, should your romance prove a blighted one, you will be inclined to become a promiscuous being, too much interested in those of the opposite sex for your own welfare. It will be necessary for you to use all the will power at your command to direct yourself along right and worthwhile paths. You are an easy person to work for as well as to work with. You are a person who accepts responsibility when given him, although you do not push yourself forward as much as you might.

Born on April 10, you are the type of person who must be happy in his work in order to succeed. You are not the one to plug along and make the best of the work you have at hand to do. You have confidence in your ability and you are not afraid to step out and try this and that field of endeavor until you find just what appeals to you most. Straight business should not appeal to you particularly, but you should do well in it if you make up your mind to. Acting, writing, or music are more in your line.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHO GETS RHEUMATISM?

IT is common belief that people who develop one of the several forms of chronic arthritis were marked for their fate early in life. A famous short story of a former day was Ruth McEnery Stewart's tale about Napoleon Jackson, an old darky, who was "marked for rest." The Lord intended that Napoleon should take life easy and had fashioned his spirit and body in accordance with the plan.

There are people who appear to be marked for chronic rheumatism. Being so marked has some advantages. They escape certain diseases, for those who belong to the chronic rheumatism group are not liable to have consumption, and, some say, pneumonia has no hankering for them. On the other hand, they may pay an unusually heavy toll to heart disease, high blood pressure and some of the forms of Bright's disease.

There are landmarks by which we can judge that some are to have rheumatism. One is a tendency to cold feet and cold legs. The persons of this group seem to be poor heat makers, or else their facilities for distributing heat are poor. In some way heat seems to have a relationship to chronic rheumatic disorders. There is much of it in cold, raw, damp places and but little of it in warmer climates. Heat locally is about as good a remedy as we have. Hot springs have a reputation for cures of rheumatism.

Those of the rheumatic constitution are prone to have pains—neuralgic pains, or general neuralgia, as one correspondent terms it.

Pemberton says that when a person of this type eats freely of starchy and sweet foods his blood sugar rises to an unexpectedly high level. Goldthwaite and Osgood think that people of this group have enlarged abdomens and soft, flabby abdominal walls. They are apt to be sway-backed when they stand.

Dr. Eugene F. Traut says the skin is pale and sallow, closely set, longitudinal ridges are seen on the nails, and the subjects give a history of having been subject to neuralgic and rheumatic pains. The metabolic rate is low—so much so that many hold that the people who are thyroid mius are quite subject to rheumatism, and the goiter people have but little of it.

If these views are correct it should be possible for men to group themselves into a rheumatic type or in the other group. If they belong in the rheumatic group they should dress warmer and expose themselves less than others.

That man is marked for rheumatism does not mean that infection does not play a part in the causation of arthritis. Many of the arthritics are the direct result of infections. Among the prominent portals of entry are the gums, teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, digestive tract and the female organs of generation. Infections entering through any of these portals get into the blood stream and locate in the joints or bones or elsewhere. The new foci may feed bacteria into the blood after the primary portal has been closed.

Today's Recipe

Hot Cross Buns.

1 cup milk
1-3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons fat
3 2-3 cups flour
½ cup currants

Crumble yeast in bowl. Scald milk and cool until lukewarm. Add 2 tablespoons milk and 1 tablespoon sugar to yeast and let stand 5 minutes. Add rest of sugar and milk, salt, fat melted and ½ the flour. Beat 3 minutes. Add remaining flour and currants. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. It will require about 4 hours. Roll out dough and cut out buns 1½ inches in diameter and arrange side by side on greased baking sheet. Allow to double in size, brush over tops with 2 tablespoons egg yolk mixed with 2 tablespoons milk. Take back of knife and make shapes like cross in tops of the soft buns. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven. If desired, frosting can be placed on tops of buns in shape of cross.

NATS DEFEAT BUFFALO, 8-1, FOR 8TH STRAIGHT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THERE is joy in Flatbush today where Joseph Ignatius Judge is adorning first base with a glitter unseen since the salad days of Jake Daubert.

Brooklyn to the number of 24,000 turned out yesterday for Joe Judge Day with the Yankees as the visiting attraction and, untrue to the tradition of days set aside for favorite native or adopted sons, Judge poked a home run over the right field wall for one of the Dodgers' five hits and their only run of the game.

The day before, Judge belied the suspicions of advancing age by beating out a swinging bunt down the first-base line, a play that recent years have branded as a lost art among Brooklyn's Daffiness boys. This in addition to a brand of defensive first-base play that has been extinct in the National League for a full decade. Our Joseph seems to be doing well for himself.

Game Pays for Judge For Season.

That the Yankees threw the Dodgers for a 3-1 loss despite Judge's heroic efforts seems to be beside the point. Outstanding, as this department views it, was the crowd of 24,000, which, by rapid calculation of their 60 per cent as the home club, gives the Dodgers a full return on their $10,000 investment in Judge and an ample profit on the day.

The Dodgers saved $7,500 outright on their purchase of Judge from Clark Griffith when the Nats' owner waived the waiver price in deference to the veteran's 18 years of noble service here. The $10,000 salary that Judge is drawing thus represents only a $2,500 outlay by the Dodgers in addition to the waiver price.

The fact that Judge was able to poke a home run over the Brooklyn right field wall augurs well for his continued value to the Dodgers. Griffith Stadium during the last half dozen years defied Judge's home run attempts, especially after the right field wall had been built up an additional 20 feet. Judge hit the fence times without number but rarely was he able to lift the ball out of the park. Brooklyn's right field barrier apparently is more accessible for Judge's drives.

Homer Reminded of Foxx And Gehrig.

Dave Harris, the guy who claims he'd hit .400 if they left him in the game regularly, but who has never been able to hold a regular job, gave a most edifying demonstration of the punch he packs when he smote a pitch into the terraced bleachers in left field late in the game yesterday.

Harris didn't hit the ball on the nose. The same kind of a clout by Ossie Bluege or Johnny Kerr or most any other member of the Nats' cast would have dropped comfortably into the mitt of the left fielder. But those broad shoulders of Dave Harris impart an extra something that makes his high flies potential homers.

It was the type of home run that Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Foxx hit as contrasted to the line drives of Babe Ruth, Al Simmons and Goose Goslin. Pure brute strength is accountable for half the homers of Gehrig and Foxx, whose glorified pops are undeterred by ball park barriers by reason of their ability to turn on the power in clouts that are not hit exactly on the nose.

Braves Beat Red Sox, 4-2; Split City Series

Boston, April 9 (A.P.).—Fred Frankhouse twirled the full distance today as the Braves defeated the Red Sox, 4 to 2, to even and end the two-game spring city series at Braves Field, before a crowd of 6,500.

Frankhouse allowed seven hits, two more than his teammates were able to collect off Rhodes and Welland, but he probably would have scored a shutout if Smead Jolley hadn't connected with a fast one for a home run in the ninth inning.

Cronin Says Yanks Club To Beat

Believes His Nats and the A's Will Be in Thick of Race.

By JOE CRONIN
(Manager Washington Nationals.)
(Written for Associated Press).

I BELIEVE the approaching American League race is going to be a lot more interesting than any we have had in recent years.

Of course, the Yankees, with their fine punch and great pitching will be the team to beat, but I think we and the Athletics will be right in the thick of the race.

The Athletics took some chances in getting rid of Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmie Dykes, but far be it from Connie Mack not to have something left up his sleeve. He still has great pitching and some fine young players.

Tribe Figures Tough To Beat.

Cleveland has a club that has been kept intact and should be very tough to beat right from the start. Detroit, with greatly improved young talent and a capable pitching staff, also should make it interesting for every team in the league.

Then Chicago, with the additions of Simmons, Dykes and Haas, should be stronger than in many years. In Simmons, the Sox acquired one of the best ball players in the league and, in my belief, the best right-hand hitter in baseball today.

St. Louis and Boston have made sufficient changes to bolster their punch somewhat and, although they probably will not get in the pennant fight, they should do much toward keeping the strong clubs from making a runaway race of it.

As for my club, I need only point to its record of last year, and the fact that many critics have picked us to beat out the Yanks this time. We are well balanced all around, our pitching should be even stronger than last season, and if we don't win a pennant it won't be because we didn't try. I never saw better spirit in any outfit.

Whitehill, Stewart Seen As Winners.

While I am sure we will miss a fine relief pitcher like Firpo Marberry, who went to Detroit during the winter, I am equally confident we acquired a couple of winners in Earl Whitehill and Walter Stewart. Whitehill, teamed with Alvin Crowder and Monte Weaver, gives me a "Big Three" that will spread a lot of misery around the league.

I believe Luke Sewell, obtained from Cleveland, has strengthened our catching department, and there is little fault to be found with an outfield that includes Heine Manush, Goose Goslin and Fred Schulte, the latter two acquired from St. Louis. Goslin always could hit in our park, and he's happy to be back.

Our infield, composed of Ossie Bluege, Joe Kuhel, Buddy Myer and myself, remains intact, I believe it stacks up with any in the league.

Eastern Cities Form New Duckpin League

Special to The Washington Post.

Hartford, Conn., April 9.—Representatives from six Eastern cities, where the game of duckpins thrives, met here tonight and organized the United States Duckpin League, the first association of its kind ever formed. Williamantic, Conn.; Boston, Richmond, Atlanta, Baltimore and Washington entered the loop.

Harry Z. Greer and George L. Isemann, both of Washington, were elected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Play will begin November 13, with each team making two trips around the circuit. Twenty-two prizes, totaling $1,740, will be distributed.

Eligibility rules permit each team to carry a roster of 10 men, who do not necessarily have to be natives of the city they represent.

Hornsby Out of Game For at Least 2 Weeks

St. Louis, April 9 (A.P.).—Rogers Hornsby, stormy figure of baseball, will be out of the St. Louis Cardinal line-up for at least two weeks, Dr. Robert Hyland, club surgeon said here today, due to an injury to his achilles tendon.

Burke's Ryder Cup Absence Mistake, Charges Sarazen

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, April 9 (A.P.).—The peace and harmony with which the Professional Golfers Association of America hoped to surround its selections for the 1933 Ryder Cup invasion of England was abruptly jolted today by Gene Sarazen's charge that the P. G. A. had made a "big mistake in ignoring Bill Burke, 1931 American open champion, for membership on the team."

Sarazen refrained from making any specific accusations of favoritism in the make-up of the team, for which he and eight other professionals already have been selected, with Walter Hagen as captain, but the world's champion shotmaker insisted Burke's all-around ability and record entitled him to a place on the squad.

Sarazen's unexpected criticism of the team selection was made in connection with a prediction that the American Ryder Cup Team, including only five survivors of the last team battle overseas with the British, would have a real fight on its hands this june. Each team has won two series on home links.

Burke Still Ranks High.

"Burke seems to have been overlooked merely because he did not measure up last year to his sensational form of 1931," said Sarazen, "but he still ranks among the first five or six professional golfers in the United States.

"Bill could be picked alone for what he did two years ago, when he was chosen by Capt. Hagen in the Ryder Cup matches at Columbus for the toughest assignment. Burke was put against the No. 1 British player, Archie Compston, and gave him a terrific lacing.

"As you know, Burke was really the outstanding star of that Ryder

GARIBALDI'S AIM IS NEW REFEREE

Protests on Bortnick as Third Man for Dusek Bout.

WITH the fire of righteous anger gleaming in his eye, Gino Garibaldi last week protested to Promoter Joe Turner against the presence of big Bennah Bortnick in the ring when the irritable Italian tangles with Ernie Dusek Thursday night at the Auditorium. At least press dispatches filtering in from field headquarters on H street say there was fire in Garibaldi's eye. Anyhow, he protested and vehemently.

Bortnick, who has long aspired to be a wrestler but never got beyond the officiating stage, muscles in on his act every time he comes to the city, according to Garibaldi. He has even gone so far as to disqualify him in several bouts. The last of these had an echo in Turner's 60-day suspension of the Italian.

Since the younger Dusek has a hankering to be rough about his wrestling, Garibaldi sees no reason why they shouldn't be permitted to go the limit and let the rougher man win.

The only possible substitute for Bortnick is Cyclone Burns, the bald-headed gent, and Garibaldi isn't very partial toward him because the light reflects from Burns' barren pate into Gino's eyes.

Meanwhile we are reminded that Dick Raines will meet Casey Berger in the 45-minute semifinal with a trio of bouts supporting the two.

Everett Scott Takes Third Place in A. B. C.

Columbus, Ohio, April 9 (A.P.).—Everett Scott, who holds the record for playing in consecutive major league baseball games, crashed into third place in the all-events of the American Bowling Congress here late today with a total of 1,957.

Tribe Bows in Tenth As Reds Win 2d in Row

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 9 (A.P.).—Cincinnati's Reds swept their two-day exhibition series with the Cleveland Indians by winning today's game, 5 to 4, in ten innings.

A costly error by Bill Cissell plus timely hitting by the Reds helped the Cincinnatians in the third inning to four runs off Wesley Ferrell, who hurled the first eight innings for the Tribe.

The Indians got to Eppa Rixey, however, for a trio of runs in the fourth and fifth and finally tied the score in the ninth when Eddie Morgan touched one of Bennie Frey's offerings for a home run.

Judge Clouts Homer for Dodgers

Ruth's Double, Two On, Decisive; Five Hits for Robins.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 9 (A.P.).—Charley Ruffing and Herb Pennock limited the Brooklyn Dodgers to 5 hits and the New York Yankees won their seventh successive exhibition baseball victory today, 3-1.

It was Joe Judge day at Ebbets Field and the former Washington first baseman showed his appreciation for the turnout of 24,000 fans by lining a home run over the right field wall in the fifth inning for Brooklyn's only run.

Walter Beck, rookie right-hander, was the victim of the first two Yankee runs in the third inning, when Babe Ruth sliced a double past third base with a pair of teammates on base. The other Yankee run came in the ninth on singles by Byrd and Gehrig and Chapman's double off old Jack Quinn.

CHISOX TAKE CITY TITLE SERIES

Hayes Hits Homer as Cubs Are Beaten, 12 to 6.

CHICAGO, April 9 (A.P.).—Rapping Pat Malone with vigor in the third, fifth and sixth innings, the Chicago White Sox beat the Cubs, 12 to 6, today to win the spring series, three games to one.

Mule Haas, new Sox outfielder, led the attack with three hits that knocked in four runs, and Jack Hayes hit a homer in the fifth. Off young Roy Henshaw in the final frame, the Hose made three more on Swanson's double with the bases full.

Eddie Durham pitched good ball for the American Leaguers but Paul Gregory was wild in the final inning and the Bruins made four runs.

Frank Mischou Ties For K. of C. Pin Crown

Special to The Washington Post.

Hartford, Conn., April 9.—Frank Mischou, of Washington, and Jim Maher, of Hartford, tied for the top honors in the Knights of Columbus sweepstakes, rolled here today in conjunction with the national duckpin tournament, each toppling 644 pins. Another Washington man, Freddy Moore, captured fifth place with a score of 596.

Maher rallied in the closing boxes of his last game to tie Mischou for first prize. A roll-off will be held in Baltimore April 23.

Orioles Face Pitching of Stewart

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

AFTER today the Nationals will be ready for the real thing in the way of competition, for their exhibition season ends this afternoon with a tussle with the Baltimore Orioles. Lefty Walter Stewart will put on the finishing touches of his spring training by going the route against the International Leaguers.

Manager Joe Cronin, however, declares that his men do not need this final practice tilt and that he rates his Nats as being in just about as good condition generally as any squad could be.

"I believe I have the best-trained club in either league," he remarked after yesterday's game. "Every man is in the pink and, judging from the other big league teams I have seen and what I have heard of still others, we are the best prepared physically of any of the others for the long grind which starts Wednesday."

Pilot Ray Schalk and his Bisons left here last night without getting any of the talent they sought from the Nats. They wanted an infielder and catcher, neither of which spare parts the Nats had available. The Giants have promised them the receiver, though, so their troubles have been cut in half.

Bobby Burke, slim southpaw, is now pitching overhead instead of depending upon a side-arm style of delivery and Manager Cronin is authority for the statement that Bob is more effective overhead. It seems this is Burke's natural style and several years back one of the Nat coaches had him shift to the side-arm style. Now he will use this offering only occasionally, as does Monte Weaver.

"Uncle Nick" Altrock was back on the job yesterday. He will be under wraps for a while, though, in deference to a mild heart attack.

Umpire Roy Van Grafian, who has been handling all of the Nats' spring games, left for his home in Rochester after yesterday's game, where he will rest and visit a couple of days before opening the season in Detroit, Wednesday.

Lloyd (Slim) Cassell, rookie right-handed hurler who went South with the Nats and then was sent back home, came up from Calverton for a workout yesterday. He brought Trainer Mike Martin a basket of duck eggs as payment for the use of a uniform.

Lou Kolls, one of the American League's two new umpires, was recommended to League President Harridge by Umpire Van Grafian. He toiled in the International last year and is said to be quite peppy and colorful. He once played ball in the Three-Eye League and also took a fling at pro-football. He makes his major league debut here Wednesday.

The "union" rule which forbids a pitcher to make a catch unless absolutely necessary almost caused an injury in the third. Marshall popped one almost to the center of the pitcher's box. First Bluege called for it and then Kuhel, the result being a collision. Bluege went down, but fortunately was not hurt.

Myer hustled over toward first to make a nifty gloved-hand stop of Crouse's grass-cutter in the fifth.

English went over behind third to grab Cronin's bounder in the fifth. It went as a hit, but prevented Kuhel, on second, from scoring at the time, although h did so a moment later on Goslin's double.

Washington fans thought they had seen the end of the great contortionist pitcher, Cecil Pat Caraway, when the White Sox turned him loose last season. He showed up yesterday in a Buffalo uniform, relieving Gould starting the seventh.

Heinie Manush went hitless yesterday, breaking a consecutive-game hitting streak that had extended throughout the entire spring season.

Ollie Tucker, former Nat who cavorted in right for the Bisons, did not have a chance afield until the Nats' last trip to the plate. Then he made two of the three putouts.

Davis Cup Zone Title Is Won by Argentines

Buenos Aires, April 9 (A.P.).—Argentina won the South American zone championship of Davis Cup tennis competition today, defeating Chile, 3 to 0.

Argentina, which captured the first two singles matches yesterday, clinched the series by victory in the doubles today, Del Castillo and Zappa defeating Delk and Schoenher, 6—4, 6—2, 6—3.

BURCH TO CAMPAIGN 32 HORSES AT 13-DAY GRAW MEETING

D. C. Trainer Has Stars On Edge

Keen Race for Training Honors Is Seen; Stalls Are Full.

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 9.—With the 1933 Eastern racing season slated to open here Saturday, there is much discussion as to who will finish the Harford Agricultural and Breeders' Association's 13-day session as the leading trainer.

Much has been heard of the prospects of various stables, but work watchers say that Joe Patterson, who looks after the Audley Farm's string; Preston M. Burch, who is training various stables, including that of Walter M. Jeffords, of Philadelphia, or Clyde Phillips, who is handling 26 horses for the Ziegler family, of Virginia, will bob up the dark horses in the give-and-take battle that is certain to result.

Pres Burch, as smart a horseman as ever tightened a girth on a thoroughbred, has 32 thoroughbreds to shoot after purses. Among the Washingtonian's "aces" are White Clover II, Tambour, Pencader, Slave Ship, Ironclad and Golden Ship, all names of importance to America's racing world.

Burch Has Several Strings.

In addition to looking after the horses of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, Burch will saddle the thoroughbreds of William du Pont, jr., Brandywine Stable, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Somerville and several of his own.

Buddy Hanford, one of America's best "money riders" will do the booting for Burch, which means that anything the Washingtonian saddles will be in capable hands.

Joe Patterson brought to Maryland the pick of the 69 horses that B. B. Jones, of Berryville, Va., will race this year under the nom de course of the Audley Farm.

Patterson enjoyed a highly successful winter's campaign in New Orleans and as a result Owner Jones decided to give him the pick of his vast stable to race here. That's a mighty fine tribute to pay any trainer and Joe can be counted upon to work 24 hours daily in an effort to bring success to his employer's colors.

Phillips Has 22 Juveniles.

Twenty-two of Phillips' string are 2-year-olds. However, in Keep Out, bay son of Espino and Interloper, he has one of the best 3-year-olds here. This fellow has been going along smartly and is considered the "dark horse" for the approaching Kentucky Derby. Included in Phillips' care is Gay Banner, a filly, who will carry the silks of Miss Elizabeth Zeigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zeigler, jr. It will be Miss Zeigler's first venture in the world's greatest outdoor sport.

Dion Kerr, Tim Donohue and former jockey Nick Huff have several horses here and although they haven't enough strength to be battling the big stables for top honors, they can be counted upon to make the forthcoming session a profitable one.

Horsemen are advised not to ship here unless General Manager Burke, Superintendent James Ross or Race Secretary Joseph McLennan notifies them that they have been granted stalls. The demand for stalls far exceeds the supply, but if there are any late-minute cancelations other horsemen will be moved in from one of the other State tracks.

A big crowd of turfites from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington were on hand to watch yesterday's workouts. The majority motored here and report the roads in grand shape.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

LEXINGTON, KY., APRIL 9.

DEAR AL:

Well, friend, I didn't do myself so much good here Saturday but I gave Mike a thrill. Lezev, my pick in the eighth, closed at 50-1 and $2 worth of Mike's dough was riding on her nose. When he saw the Zev filly move up going into the stretch turn, he ran down to the rail to try to help Dickson ride her home but Sweeprush and Ruckus proved a trifle too tough and Lezev wound up in the third hole at a $19.20 mutuel. Here's some worth watching tomorrow. See you Saturday.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—DROMBO, the Chance Play gelding which hasn't been a price since I put him over at Bowie last fall, is far down the list in this field and may not see action. However, if he does start I look for him to lead BEDIGHT and OZITI home. The former picks up 12 pounds after that brilliant race at Tropical.

SECOND RACE—There's not much in this field among the youngsters that have been tried. For that reason I'm going to try to pull the Bennings winner from the nonstarters. Among this group is MR. JAMES, a St. James-Wonderful One gelding, which has worked rather encouragingly. Then there is TEA LEE, not so strong on the breeding, but a fair stepper in trials. FIRE NECK did fairly well at Tropical.

THIRD RACE—THISTLE FYRN was shipped from New Orleans in good condition and off that last effort down there I can't help but put her on top. She is in favorably with 110 pounds. MEMPHIS LASS is asked to carry more weight than usual, but is a place possibility. PRINCESS PERI is improved enough to take the show.

FOURTH RACE—PRINCE DRAKE proved a good sort in Florida and appears to pack a punch that will take care of CABOUSE, the other dangerous one. The latter also showed to advantage in winter racing. GENTEEL LADY comes to this after a good effort and may be in the pay.

FIFTH RACE—My top pick here depends on whether or not the rain holds off. If the track is fast, CAPTAIN RED, with that last win under his saddle cloth, should take the purse. Any other track condition will lean me to PLUMAGE. NYACK for the show.

SIXTH RACE—PEACOCK BLUE arrived at Havre de Grace last fall with four straight at Dade Park on the ledger but was mighty sour thereafter, sinking a lot of the public dough. The Peacock has been rested during the winter, has been worked into condition and is rarin' to go. CHUCK B, another fresh one, seems second best. JIM MACAW comes from Florida in good form.

SEVENTH RACE—DEEMSTER and SPUD appear to have this purse between them and each comes up after a campaign down the line. I like them in the order named. PRETTY PENNY for the show end.

Calvin Griffith Hurls No-Hit Sandlot Game

Calvin Griffith, adopted son of the owner of the Washington Baseball Club, basked in the spotlight yesterday morning in the George Washington Inter-Fraternity League, hurling a no-hit no-run game during abbreviated five innings, struck out ten men, and contributed two hits, as his team, Acacia, defeated Delta Tau Delta, 3 to 0, at the Ellipse diamond.

Before entering G. W., Griffith, who is a freshman, starred at Staunton Military Academy, where he was outstanding in basket ball and baseball.

Unionist Nine Loses Annapolis Twin Bill

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 9.—The Federal Unionist baseball team, of Washington, dropped a double-header to the Annapolis Athletic Club semipro team here today by scores of 4 to 2 and 11 to 2. In both games the teams batted on practically even terms, but the locals gathered their hits at more opportune times and took full advantage of the Unionists' miscues.

Marlboro Victor In Soccer Series

German-American Bows, 6-2; Ernst Stars With Three Goals.

Marlboro gained the semifinals in the cup tie tournament of the Washington, Southeastern District Soccer Association by outpointing the German-American Seconds, 6-2, before a crowd of 500 fans at the Bennings field yesterday. Gaithersburg forfeited to the Recreation League Selects by failing to appear for its scheduled game.

Sam Ernst booted the leather into the netting for three goals to lead the scoring. His brother, O. Ernst, was right behind with two and R. Mitchell contributed the third point of the fray with a well-directed kick.

Fighting gamely from the start the Germans made but little impression on the stout defense of their more experienced rivals. Marlboro retained possession of the ball over most of the route, and play was in German territory throughout.

No games are scheduled next Sunday, but play in the tournament will be resumed the following week. In all probability the teams will draw lots for semifinal games.

FRATERS BEAT BALLSTON.

With Lefty Scrivener pitching three-hit ball, the Alexandria Fraters defeated the strong Ballston A. C. by a score of 7-0 yesterday. Woody Godfrey and Gunny Davis led the winners at the plate, collecting five hits between them. Shorty Scrivener's brilliant catch in the latter stages of the fray featured the Fraters' defense. The winners will meet the White Oaks Club Sunday at Fredericksburg, Va.

BLUES TROUNCE GEHRIGS.

The Blues scored a 14-10 victory over the Lou Gehrigs in a game marred by miscues on both sides. Paul Flavin and Larrick connected for four hits each to lead the Blues at the plate.

AUSTRIAN BOOTERS BOW.

Vienna, April 9 (A.P.).—Czechoslovakia defeated Austria, 2 to 1, in a closely contested international soccer match here today. The first half was scoreless.

EASTERN MIDGETS TRIUMPH.

Eastern A. C. Midgets took advantage of the fair weather to hang a 3-0 defeat on the Clifton Juniors in a well-played game yesterday. Romio Di Giulian starred on the mound for the winners, holding the opposition to two hits and fanning ten.

SARAZEN PROTESTS ABSENCE OF BURKE

Cup series, playing marvelously accurate golf, and followed that up by winning the national open at Toledo in a record play-off with George Von Elm.

"I took the open title from Burke last year, but Bill was still good enough to finish seventh, well up in the money. Leo Diegel was the only other member of the new Ryder Cup Team to finish ahead of Burke, who has been the biggest money winner of us all in the last two national championships. That is where it counts and where Burke has shown the kind of ability that entitles him to a place on the team.

Would Have to Win Open.

"I would be willing, personally, to take a $100 cut on my share of the expense money, if the others would do the same thing, to make a place for Burke and pay his expenses. As it stands, otherwise, the only chance he has to make the team is to win our open title again at Chicago the early part of June."

Sarazen and Capt. Hagen are the only former American open champions on the 1933 team. The others, selected by the P. G. A. under a sectional balloting plan, are Ed Dudley, Densmore Shute, Olin Dutra, Paul Runyan, Craig Wood, Horton Smith and Leo Diegel. Dutra and Runyan, the newcomers to Ryder Cup competition, both have played sensational golf within the past year. Dutra is the present P. G. A. champion.

Shute, Wood, Dudley Prominent.

Smith, handicapped by a broken hand, has not been prominently in the national championship picture since 1930. Shute, Dudley and Wood have helped themselves to a substantial share of sectional or winter honors, although failing to figure conspicuously for three successive years in the race for the open crown. Wood lost his only previous Ryder Cup match, in the 1931 singles. Runyan also has been a star of the winter circuits, but has yet to do better than twelfth in the national open.

Nee Star in Prep Golf Win; Other News of D. C. Courses

By DAVE HERMAN.

BLIND BOGEYS, medal handicap tournaments, a prep school match and holes-in-one bobbed up along District golf courses yesterday as the season of competitive golf was officially inaugurated.

It was the most active day of the year, as Washington's linksmen sharpened their weapons for important invitation and District combats, beginning next month.

With Maurice Nee shooting par-smashing golf, Georgetown Prep's golf team experienced no trouble in overwhelming Western High, 5½ to ½, at the Garrett Park course. Western's only scoring was achieved when Thrasher, of the West End school, tied Allan, Georgetown Prep captain.

Maurice Nee Shoots 67.

Nee, District junior title holder, came zooming down the last nine with a sterling 31, to hang up a medal score of 67, equaling his own course record, three below orthodox figures. With Billy Dettweiler as an accomplice, Nee produced a best-ball score of 30 on the homecoming nine.

Nee (G. P.) defeated Shannon (W.), 3 and 2; Dettweiler (G. P.) defeated Groettum, 5 and 4; best ball, Georgetown Prep, 3 and 2.

Allan (G. P.) and Thrasher (W.), tied; Carey (G. P.) defeated Shea (W.), 4 and 2; best ball, Georgetown Prep, 5 and 3.

Close to 100 participated in the initial blind bogey at Beaver Dam's lengthy course, and it remained for J. F. Baggett to set the pace with a 78 gross in the first flight. Joe Allegretto was runner-up.

Russell M. Brown took honors in the second flight with 94, and K. G. Hale emerged second. Third flight prize went to C. J. Warren by virtue of his 107, and G. A. Ford was second. J. A. Vance topped the fourth division with 122, and T. P. Lampe was second.

Woodmont opened its season with a medal handicap event, Robert Baum winning first prize with 83—13—70. N. N. Wallack took second with 95—22—73, and Leopold B. Freudberg third with 91—16—75.

Hitting booming tee shots, but a trifle weak with his putting, Howard Nordlinger, club champion, cruised about the course, and reported an 85.

76 Lucky Number At Kenwood.

Over at Kenwood's sporty layout, Prof. Al Houghton conducted a blind bogey for all the good fellows, and before dusk descended a seven-way tie for first prize resulted. The lucky number was 76. Those who shared in the prizes were Jack Jester, 86—10; G. A. Small, 101—25; B. E. Tew, 100—24; Capt. D. D. Kellogg, 91—15; William Weber, 96—20; Tom Creighton, 116—40, and L. Boyd, 89—13.

Maury Fitzgerald clicked off an 81 to capture low gross honors, while Johnny Shorey and Royce Hough, the club titleholder, were next with 83's each. Al Houghton, who played with Fitzgerald and Hough, set an encouraging example with a 71.

Seventy-four proved the winning number in the blind bogey event at Manor. E. H. Cashell, with 95—15—74, was declared the winner. Second prize went to W. W. Parnum, with 99—22—77. Other winners were Mike Myers, 88—15—73; B. C. Hartig, 92—19—73; I. C. Donohue, 87—12—75, and P. Z. Haig, 92—17—75.

Webb Shoots Good Golf.

Tom Webb, jr., son of the Washington Golf and Country Club champion, has turned from thoughts of football to golf, and already has served notice to his companions that he is in fine fettle. Touring the rolling Cherrydale layout Saturday for the first time in nine months, in company with Dave Thomson, pro, the husky Maryland gridiron ace, carded an 80. Thomson had a 73.

Yesterday Webb poked out terrific drives and showed a flash of his self by grounding out a 75 as he and Ed Brooke broke even in an 18-hole match with Ralph Fowler and Rudolph Harrell. Fowler and Harrell had 78's, each, and Brooke, an 80.

According to Thomson, Webb needs only to brush up on his chip shots before the strappy youngster will be hammering away consistently, at Old Man Par.

Maureen Orcutt, premier American feminine golf star, will arrive in Washington this morning from Richmond, Va., where yesterday she played in a match as the guest of Virginia friends.

Miss Orcutt is motoring in with Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia titleholder. Tomorrow at Kenwood the North and South champion will play in a friendly match with Mrs Haynes, Al Houghton, pro and Dick Lunn, young Burning Tree, star. She also is scheduled to appear at Columbia and Indian Spring sometime this week.

Mel Shorey Takes Fine 66.

While he was three strokes shy of equaling his best score for the course, Mel Shorey yesterday stroked his way over East Potomac's links for a 66, his best round of the season, and the lowest tallied at the layout since the year started.

Shorey burned up F course in 32 strokes and toured B in 34. He was 4 under par for the 18, bagging 4 birdies. His comrades also scored well. They were Claude Rippey, with 71; Ralph Bennie, with 72, and Volney Burnett, with 79.

Shorey's card:

F.....	4	2	3	5	4	5	4	2	3	—32

Chevy Chase will be the scene of the second team maches between clubs of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association this morning. Army and Navy last week took the lead in the matches. In the event of rain the event will be postponed until Tuesday morning.

The first event of the season for clubs affiliated with the Maryland State Golf Association is slated for Five Farms on April 26, a handicap event being on tap, according to a schedule released by William D. Waxter, jr., tournament committee chairman.

Six events will be held at District courses.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

N the try-out of the new directional antenna with which Station WJSV expects to overcome its terference with the Naval Research boratory station, just across the tomac, it is reported to have work- splendidly—but in the wrong diction. Instead of lessening interrence WJSV was reported to have most blown the Navy station off the ap.

Harry C. Butcher, the much word manager of WJSV, said that the fficulty was simply a matter of inallation. He declared the blast the avy station received furnished ample oof that the new antenna was ally directional and that when they t it turned around in the other rection it would be all right.

Whether or not this directional tenna will work well enough to cify those in charge of the Navy ation or whether even a long drawn t fight in the courts will save JSV, was a matter of considerable eculation in radio circles. The nount invested in WJSV is said to upwards of $75,000, but the Navy ople argue that the investment at e Research Laboratory runs into e millions. Furthermore they point the fact that their work has to do th the national defense.

It is one of the few Governmental tivities that is absolutely secret. one except Navy officials know what going on over there. The consens of opinion seems to be that ough WJSV might not be shut wn May 1 as the Radio Commison has ordered, it will eventually ve to obey the order.

If it does, the question arises as who will have to pay for the stly mistake. A legal authority ntured the suggestion that if WJSV forced to seek another location, to ap its present less-than-six-month- plant, or is shut down for any gth of time, Columbia's only reess will be to try to get a bill rough Congress reimbursing the twork for its loss.

NASMUCH as the Federal Radio Commission has been blamed for granting WJSV a permit to erect tation within a mile of one of the overnment's most important radio ations the commission's justifica- on of its position has been awaited th considerable interest. It was ally revealed by the commission, part, as follows:

"At the time of granting the conruction permit to WJSV the Radio mmission was not informed of and d no knowledge concerning the rious activities at the Naval Reearch Station and had no knowlge that the operation of WJSV uld cause serious interference erewith. In fact the commission s not informed concerning the tivities of the Naval Research boratory, or that interference would caused therewith by the operation WJSV."

"A fine alibi," a critic of the comssion declared. "The Radio Comssion evidently didn't know of the stence of one of the Navy's most portant broadcasting stations. If e Navy station had been located on e Pacific Coast, or out in the Philpines there might have been some use for this lack of knowledge, but Naval Research Station is almost sight of the commission's offices Washington."

To date has yet been set for the ut of Ed Wynn' new chain, the l outlet of which is to be WOL, LeRoy Mark sends word that in icipation of the event that Ed given Walter W. Ahlschlager carte che (his words, not ours) to build 3-story building to house the igamated Broadcasting System.

As we suspected, the program department of Station WJSV was again 100 per cent wrong in announcing that Ed Hill would have John Ringling, circus magnate, and Dexter Fellows, famous circus press agent, as his guests Friday night. A press notice issued a week before by Paul White, Columbia press representative in New York, advised that Mr. Hill would present Weber and Fields, the grand old Dutch comedians, at that time.

Mr. White was 100 per cent right. The Weber and Fields broadcast, in our opinion, was the best thing Hill has ever put on. At least it was a joy to those who used to make the Weber and Fields Music Hall a regular port of call.

As most listeners know, Mr. Hill has been applying the "March of Time" idea to his interviews with marvelous results. The interview with Police Commissioner Mulrooney was a humdinger. We are now hoping he may give us a half an hour with Chief John J. McElligott, of the New York Fire Department.

John Mills, of the Mills Brothers, is still ill with pneumonia in New York. The Mills Brothers, therefore, will be off the air tonight. Instead will be a group of stars, including Jimmy Durante, Hope Williams, Lupe Velez and Roy Atwell. The broadcast will come direct from the dressing rooms of "Strike Me Pink," a current Broadway musical comedy (WJSV, 9:15 p. m.).

Gems from the world's greatest operas and familiar works heard on concert programs throughout the season will comprise the new series of National Opera Concerts which will be heard each Monday evening, beginning tonight over WRC at 8:30 o'clock.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE ROPER will outline "Problems of World Trade" over WRC at 10:30 o'clock tonight. Secretary Roper will be heard as second speaker in the "Cabinet Series" of the National Radio Forum.

"Clarence," one of Booth Tarkington's most successful plays, will be presented by the Radio Guild this afternoon (WMAL, 4 o'clock) . . . Rear Admiral Wat Tyler Culverius, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, will discuss "The Navy at the World's Fair" (WMAL, 3:15 p. m.) . . . The Octavus Roy Cohen Murder Mystery will reach listeners in the Eastern United States over WMAL on a new schedule beginning tonight. Episodes in the mystery drama will be presented on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays at 7:15 p. m. in the future, instead of on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 7:45 p. m. as formerly. . . . Sam Herman, xylophone virtuoso, will share the solo spotlight with William Rosza, pianist, during the Melody Moments concert with Josef Pasternack, over WMAL, at 9:30 p. m. . . . Starting tonight, Singin' Sam, whose programs of songs over WJSV are now heard three nights a week, will start his new spring and summer schedule of broadcasts once a week at the new time of 8 p. m., Mondays, fifteen minutes earlier than his present time on the air. . . . A dramatization of the career of Cecil Rhodes will bring the American School of the Air into the last week of its present term (WJSV, 2:30 p. m.).

Ann Butler, who made her debut several weeks ago, will continue to be heard with her "boy friend," Chick Harrison, over WJZ networks (not WMAL), but at a new hour, once each week beginning tonight. Her new schedule is planned to interrupt the radio audience's peace of mind at 11 p. m. on Monday evenings, instead of on Thursdays as heretofore.

NEW types of piano tone color, harpsichord effects, piccolo and other woodwind tonalities will be demonstrated on the Miessner Electronic piano, when Anton Rovinsky offers another recital on the unusual instrument today at 3:45 p. m. over WJSV.

WHEN George Bernard Shaw addresses the Academy of Political Science in New York tomorrow night, he will face one of the most elaborate microphone set-ups ever devised for broadcasting an individual's speech.

Every precaution will be taken to pick up his every word, not only for the benefit of a nation-wide radio audience but also for those in the Metropolitan Opera House. His talk will be broadcast beginning at approximately 8:45, and also will be carried over a special public address system which is being installed in the auditorium so every Shavian quip will be heard clearly in the most remote seat.

Fully cognizant of Shaw's wandering habits on the lecture platform, the engineers will actually surround him with a chain of invisible microphones planted in the footlights and in the wings. They intend to circumvent any eccentricities that otherwise may cause some of his words of wisdom to be lost to the ears of his listeners.

Should the satirist walk to any part of the stage, should he even turn his back on the audience, something he has been known to do at odd moments in the course of an address, the alert microphones will catch every word.

Independent Cab Chief Asks Hearing on Rates

A petition for a hearing to establish a minimum taxicab rate was sent to the Public Utility Commission by Harry C. Davis, president of the Independent Taxicab Owners, on behalf of that organization.

Mr. Davis states that cab operators of his organization want the commission to establish a flat minimum rate and uniform zones, in the absence of a motor tariff which is prohibited by the District appropriation bill until July 1. Mr. Davis will ask for a higher rate for the protection of both cab drivers and patrons.

ICE, as the solid form of water, is not wet because all the water in it is frozen solid. The watery film usually seen on the surface of a block of ice is not the ice itself, but water. Icebergs, then, as blocks of ice, are not wet.

Baseball history was written one summer afternoon in 1867 when William A. Cummings, pitcher for the old Brooklyn Stars against the Excelsiors in Brooklyn, threw the first curved ball in baseball over the plate to a dumfounded batter. A few more curves and the crowd caught on. Then the opposing team stopped the game to find out what Cummings was doing.

Baseball in those days was a matter of fast straight balls and sometimes a little drop. Pitchers had not learned to curve a ball around the plate, and batters stood up and smacked out one hit after another. Cummings' trick took with pitchers and today a man has no hope of getting in the box until he can make the path of a pitched ball look like a corkscrew.

The first curve began an era of trick deliveries in baseball, many of which today are banned. The old spit ball was outlawed, with the provision that pitchers using it when the rule was passed could continue.

MADE NO MISTAKES.

Two robbers entered a golf club in the outskirts of New York City and got $900 in five minutes. It seems they didn't press or lift their heads.

How there happened to be $900 in a golf club these days is something of a mystery, but it is possible somebody had just paid for a club sandwich.

WASHINGTON FACES TWO-DAY EXTENSION OF BEER SHORTAGE

Bottled Brew Is Practically Exhausted as Sellers Do Big Business.

Two more days of beer dearth last night appeared in prospect for Washingtonians attempting to quench their long thirst for legal lager.

Bottled beer supplies last night were practically exhausted at the establishments of the holders of "off sale" licenses. Draught beer was still obtainable at "on sale" resorts.

The city's only brewery yet operating this morning will again assume its task of catering to the beer drinkers. Officials of the concern announced last night that their dozen trucks would start shortly before 9 a. m. today to catch up on their deluge of orders.

Ten thousand barrels—full ones, halves and quarters—have been distributed by the local brewery since Thursday midnight, it was estimated. This would have filled approximately 2,000,000 glasses. Baltimore, Philadelphia and other outside beer is estmated to have filled at least 2,000,000 more glasses.

Baltimore Prospect Slight.

Possibilities of Baltimore beer in any appreciable quantities for today were believed scant last night. Dealers there were facing a larger drought and breweries were guarded by police against hijacking or mob onslaughts. Many tales, unconfirmed, of the hijacking of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York beer trucks seeped into Baltimore. Many beer trucks were learned to have broken down with their cargoes.

By tomorrow carloads of beer from Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis and other western brewing centers are hoped for by local agencies of national brewers. Normal dispensing conditions are hoped for by them.

At them dozens of tables—seating from 2 to 6 persons—had been set out on adjacent space and these sidewalk cafes were doing a rushing business.

Places Are Thronged.

All through the day the improvised beer gardens were thronged. Cherry blossom crowds from out-of-town swelled the draft beer consumers At one Connecticut avenue barbecue resort many expensive autos testified to the prevalence of beer appetites.

Observers last night pointed to one factor expected to lessen the beer demand. That was that those who just wanted to "taste" the beer had now been supplied and would make room for the serious beer drinkers.

Many Licenses Wait.

A factor calculated by many to throw a wrench into the return to normal merchandising conditions of beer was the fact that out of more than 1,000 applicants for licenses less than half have been acted on.

When all licenses have been granted, it was pointed out, the demand for the time being will certainly be doubled as far as distributors are concerned.

Inebriation in the city was marked by its absence over the week-end. While no figures were obtainable, police said that ordinary arrests for drunkenness over the holiday seemed to have decreased rather than increased.

Mutt, Pet of Lame Boy, Disappears From Home in Southeast.

A little lame boy has plenty of handicap to overcome but the additional loss of his pet dog and constant companion is almost too much.

Mutt is the name of the little boy's friend and he wears a collar and tag number 20647. He is a light brown Irish terrier with white under his throat and around his neck. He has white paws.

The little boy's name is Charles A. Bright, jr., and he lives at 531 Twelfth street southeast. He would greatly appreciate the reurn of his dog, lost or stolen.

SEVEN CHINESE HELD AS OPIUM IS FOUND

Paraphernalia Is Discovered by Two Detectives in Raid on House.

Seven Chinese, arrested early yesterday, were being held last night in connection with the discovery of about 50 small cans of alleged opium, an orthodox smoking den and other paraphernalia, as a result of a raid at 438 H steret northwest by Detective Sergeants D. H. Jones and R. A. Jones, of the police narcotic squad.

The two detectives, armed with a search warrant, issued Saturday following an investigation of several weeks, went to the house about midnight. In the basement they found a smoking layout with the Chinese in the "bunks" allegedly smoking opium. None of the men offered any resistance to the detectives.

Those arrested are: Low Wong, 22, of 622 H street northwest; Lee Gong, 36, 622 H street northwest; Lee Man, 36, 622 H street northwest; Lee Sing, 68, of 620 H street northwest; Lee Kee, 40, of 430 H street northwest; Hay Chong Gong, 40, and A. Chang, 32, both of 430 H street northwest.

The identity of the owner or proprietor of the place could not be learned nor could the source of the drug be determined, as all of the Chinese were noncommittal upon being questioned.

Motorist Badly Hurt As He Sleeps Driving

Reporting that he went to sleep while driving his automobile along the highway near Clinton, Md., John Compton, 30, of 1900 Nineteenth street northwest, was brought to Providence Hospital early yesterday and treated for severe injuries suffered when his car ran off the road and struck a telephone pole.

Police said he was found beside his wrecked machine by a passing motorist and brought to the hospital. Physicians said Compton was treated for severe lacerations to his face and body and a possible fracture of the right leg.

Relief Work to be Discussed.

Questions of grave importance to the future of relief work in Washington will be discussed at the monthly meeting of the board of managers of the Associated Charities, which will be held at the Social Service House, 1022 Eleventh street northwest, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to announcements sent out by Walter S. Ufford, general secretary.

BODY SEEN AFLOAT NEAR LITTLE FALLS

Believed to Be That of Boy About 15; Searchlight Hunt Is Begun.

A body, said to be that of a youth about 15, was sought by Harbor police last night in the upper Potomac River near Little Falls.

Frank Eberle, of Langdon, Va., told searchers he espied the body shortly before dark. It was floating on the water some distance above the falls, he said.

Unable to reach the youth, Eberle said he followed the body several yards down river. It became trapped in a small whirlpool, he related, and disappeared below the surface just before reaching the falls.

Harbor police early last night were working with searchlights waiting for the body to reappear. It was useless, they said, to drag above the falls as the body would be forced over the brink to lower waters.

Rum Buyer Called Guilty as Peddler

Clinton W. Howard Says Jesus Would Make No Distinction.

Clinton W. Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, speaking at Palm Sunday services in the Georgetown Presbyterian Church yesterday, told his listeners that if Jesus were on earth today He would look at bootleggers and buyers as equal in breaking the law. He said in part:

"Jesus exercised his kingly authority on the first Palm Sunday, when He cleansed the temple, which was the capitol and city hall, when he drove out the profiteers, racketeers and nullifiers of the law of his own generation, as recorded in all of the gospels, each of them pointing out the fact that 'He drove out all of those who sold and bought.'

"The Son of God made no distinction between buyer and seller then and He would make no distinction between buyer and bootlegger now. He drove them all out."

Thieves Rob Bakery of $30.

Intruders who forced entrance to the Federal Bakery at 1006 F street northwest early yesterday escaped with $30 from a cash register, police were told last night.

HOP VINES IN PLACE OF PALMS 1933 IDEA, DR. STOCKDALE SAYS

Beer Foam Deemed More Real Than Forgiveness, Pastor Asserts.

"In America the brewery is more important than Bethlehem and flowing foam seems more real than the forgiveness of sins," said Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, preaching yesterday morning at a special Palm Sunday service at the First Congregational Church. "Waving Palms Now" was the subject of Dr. Stockdale's sermon.

"Love and law from God is the old deal. Liquor and license from the people is the new deal. We would rather ferment the malt than leaven the meal," he said.

Dr. Stockdale continued in part:

"In ancient Jerusalem the people waved their palms at the entry of Jesus because He seemed to them a 'new deal.' They would have made him a crusader, put a flag of revolution in his hands and followed him to upset the government and give them a new material administration. In the ages gone by great revivals have looked like new deals. Russia is turned upside down with the passion for a new deal. Italy bows to the word of a dictator under the urge of a new deal. Germany has Hitlerized herself under the hyponotism of a new deal.

Palms for Divine Force.

"Turn over the churches of Christ to the hands of receivers. Offer to the throne of God the budgets of selfishness. Go through spiritual bankruptcy because of the frozen assets of worldly hearts and see what will happen to the true values of the world. Those who yet have spiritual vision can see that houses built on sand fall when the floods come. Even the prides of our mechanical perfection crack up in the storms. Jesus is not a spectacular ruler of a material kingdom. Jesus is the irresistible leaven in the latent forces of life. Jesus is the bread of life, the light of the world, the water of life.

"We wave our palms not to a man riding into a city, but to a divine force riding to the ends of the universe, one who lives after the Temple forces have crucified Him, one who triumphs after the hands of Pilate turn to dust, one who judges those who ordered his death. The pageantry of our spiritual Christ is the cherry blossoms bursting into beauty at the will of the Father. Jesus came to reveal, the perfume that rises for his triumphal entry comes from the roses released upon the altars of the world. The royal acclaim that sounds the name of Jesus are the countless multitudes redeemed, released and blessed that bow before His throne in the eternal heavens.

Misconception of Event.

"Upon a Palm Sunday long ago Jesus was acclaimed through misunderstanding. The cheers that rose to greet Him came from mob hysteria. He was surrounded by an unstable enthusiasm which could not master the midnight hours of Gethsemane nor walk with courage up the dark path to Calvary. He was cheered by a crowd that could go with Him to revolution but not to an eternal consecration. They could visualize the power of a scepter, but they could not prophesy the worldwide domination of a cross. The crowd could start with Jesus for material victory, but they could not finish with Him in spiritual triumph. Poor humans could see and understand insurrection, but they could not sense and appreciate resurrection.

"In our day crowds might be heard saying, 'If Jesus were only physically real, dazzlingly spectacular, stimulatingly thrilling, we too could wave palms and give Him a royal reception which would capture the front pages of newspapers.' But on the Palm Sunday of our day we are more eager to wave hop vines than palm branches. In our day we are liable to say, 'If Jesus were like Pompey, Caesar, Anthony and Augustus Titus and Hadrian we would join the pageantry and march cheering in a triumphal train.'"

Inquest Set Today; Police Still Held

An inquest into the fatal shooting of Charles Courtney, colored, 38, of 807 First street northwest, Friday morning, by two Ninth Precinct policemen near Second and H streets northeast, will be held at 11:30 a. m., today at the District Morgue.

Policemen J. F. Ryan and R. W. Moyer, who shot the man believing him to be the instigator of a laundry hold up, were being detained at the Ninth Precinct by order of Police Superintendent Ernest W. Brown, pending the inquest.

Both policemen had received descriptions of a colored man who held up and robbed a laundry at Fourth and H streets northeast about 10 a. m., Friday. Mrs. Ruby Bradley, manager of the laundry, viewed the man at Casualty Hospital later, but failed to identify him as the one who held her up and took about $13.

"Be Careful!"

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN Washington views "Be Mine Tonight" at the Rialto, beginning Friday, it will be apparent to astute observers that in many respects British production excels American and that in many other respects American excels British. Which, certainly, is fair enough.

"Be Mine Tonight" is another Gaumont picture, finding its way to American screens under the same auspices as "Rome Express," in many of its aspects one of the most unusual and most cleverly executed film plays of the season. The same may be said of "Be Mine Tonight." This country has seen no screen musical precisely like it.

As I previewed it over the midnight hour of last Thursday night, through the patient courtesy of Managing Director Collier and Manager Wallash—both of whom has seen it two or three times before and professed to enjoy it the last time better than ever—the thought was inescapable that in matters of costuming, settings and lighting, Hollywood is far in advance of the British Isles and the continent; in adept use of the camera and the skillful microphoning of music, the foreign producers are tremendously ahead of our own.

The story of "Be Mine Tonight" is nothing to write home about, and, for the most part, neither is the acting; but when it comes to utilizing all of the outdoor beauty and grandeur of the Swiss Alps for background and fashioning a romance that will logically permit the introduction of whole scenes from "Rigoletto," "La Traviata" and "La Boheme" without seriously impeding the movement of the central thread of narrative, this tuneful work is distinctly and indisputably in a class by itself.

For the greater part, the music is light and melodious in the best and most tuneful spirit of operetta. The theme song, "Be Mine Tonight," is a "hit" number of the catchy and easily whistled sort. The operatic interpolations are presented at their full worth.

This wide range of musical quality and performance is only made possible by the presence in the cast of Kiepura, handsome young Polish tenor, whose voice will be a revelation to screen audiences. There is much about the tonal quality and power of his upper register that is strongly reminiscent of Caruso. Even if it is all done with amplifiers, the effect is the same—magnificent beyond anything the cinema is accustomed to in a vocal way.

The Friday night premiere of "Be Mine Tonight," by the way, will take the form of an invitational first night, with all seats reserved. There will be the usual flood of light bathing the facade of the Rialto, probably a little gay music, the grinding of cameras, the flare of flashlight bulbs and all of the other customary concomitants, embellishments and ballyhoo of a de luxe "permeer" in the grand, or Hollywood, manner.

You will observe upon close perusal of the day, date and hour of my preview of this vehicle for the brilliant talents of the youthful star of the Vienna Opera Co., Kiepura, that it was exactly contemporaneous with the return of the malty nectar for which the country seems to have been parching these past 16 years. Upon my emergence into Ninth street, the scene was akin to that of Armistice Night, 1918. Slaking one's thirst with a glass of brew after a long day of arduous toil was no more difficult a matter than fighting one's way across Pennsylvania avenue ahead of the presidential car on Inauguration Day!

Imagine the ecstasy, then, of discovering that City Manager Carter Barron, of Loew's, Inc., with uncanny clairvoyance, had foreseen one's plight and already had had a case of very elegant suds delivered at one's correct drinking address! Boy, what a gran-n-n-d and glorious-u-s feeling! Prosit to you, too, not to say mud in your eye, here's looking at you and down the hatch!

It is just a little startling, and no end disturbing, to note that the only commentators upon the stage and screen who perceived shady purposes and unfortunate implications in the disclosures of "Maedchen in Uniform," at the Metropolitan, were my charming and brilliantly literate distaff contemporaries, Miss Jennings, of the Herald, and Miss Wilson, of the News.

Both profess to detect symptoms of a mild salacity that evaded the less keen eyes of their spotless and unimaginative male confreres.

Personally, not that it matters, I bowed my head in shame for our censors when I viewed this thoroughly innocuous film, and Mr. Edward de Star Melcher found himself wondering "just what was in the minds of our censors when they first banned it—certainly they must have been dreaming things far beyond what has been included in the little story."

But then, of course, Mr. Melcher and I have never been mothers, nor yet the motherless daughters of Prussian army officers, so probably wouldn't know!

There is no factor in Katharine Hepburn's immediate appeal to audiences that seems to have been largely overlooked.

Miss Hepburn, all agree, is a vivid screen personality, but few, if any, have remarked the absolute perfection of both her pronunciation and enunciation. She gives an instant impression of being wholly right in all that she says and the manner in which she says it. She is never any more guilty of false phonetics than she is of false moves in her vast economy of gesture.

Furthermore, there is never a time when an auditor has to wonder what she said, or guess at a missing word. There are no missing words and one always hears and understands everything she has said. Scarcely a handicap in a day of slovenly speech. Incidentally, she is attracting abnormally Holy Week business to RKO-Keith's in "Christopher Strong," a film inferior to her own many merits.

Sablukova Scores In Songs of Russia

Presenting several Russian folk songs and operatic selections, Mme. Anna Sablukova, a mezzo-soprano, who was once a leading voice at the Moscow Art Theater, was enthusiastically received in concert at the Jewish Community Center last night. Accompanied by Mitya Wantzoff, she sang several arias from "Carmen," "Night," by Rubenstein, and "Flood of Spring," by Rachmaninoff.

Miss Nettie Sadie, local pianist, presented several selections. Her presentation of "Fire Dance," by Manuel de Falla, was outstanding.
